

It's showtime

Associate Sports Editor Erik Rasmussen discusses NBA players and teams as they prepare for the league's Halloween opening.

Page 8

'Cinderella'

The Rogers and Hammerstein musical is recreated with a new cast for Wonderful World of Disney.

Page 6

Chile rivers

Kayakers learned from champion Chris Spelius Wednesday. Spelius is in the area promoting conservation of Chilean rivers.

Page 11

The Daily Universe

MARIAM HAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

PROVO, UTAH

VOL. 51 ISSUE 43

Stock market soars, ends 333.98 points

Associated Press

The stock market recovered from its worst day since 1987, posting its largest gain ever for a single day, surpassing the volume record it had set in 1.1 billion shares.

"Our economy is as strong and vibrant Tuesday as it has been in a generation," he said. "We have to feel confident and continue our economic strategy."

The Dow fell 554.26 to 7,161.15 Monday, surpassing the 508-point Black Monday crash of Oct. 19, 1987, as its biggest point drop ever and prompting U.S. stock markets to shut down for the first time since the 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan.

On a percentage basis, though, the 7.18 percent drop was only the Dow's 12th largest. It didn't come close to the record 22 percent Black Monday loss.

The Nasdaq, dominated by technology companies that do more business in Asia than most other American industries, also suffered its worst one-day point drop ever Monday at 115.83 points, or 7.02 percent.

In all, stocks listed on the New York, Nasdaq and American stock exchanges lost $600 billion Monday.

Overnight, all eyes were on international exchanges, where the selling frenzy began last week.

The Hang Seng index of blue chip shares in Hong Kong fell 13.7 percent, continuing a sharp sell-off that has unnerved world financial markets. Traders said the sell-off was a panicked reaction to Wall Street's sharp drop.

In Tokyo, the Nikkei Stock Average lost 4.26 percent. In London, the Financial Times-Stock fell 6 percent early in the trading day, though it recovered much of the drop by the close of trading there.

The overseas trading underscored the importance of Tuesday's Wall Street trading.

"We are now in a psychological market, and predicting what support levels might hold and what might be a bottom is an exercise in futility," said Ricky Harrington, an analyst at Interstate/Johnson Lane in Charlotte, N.C.

The sudden financial collapse in Hong Kong has ignited fears about whether Southeast Asia's shaky economies will undermine the global economy.

But with a majority of major American companies beating Wall Street forecasts again with their latest profit reports and the outlook on domestic inflation and interest rates remaining favorable, many analysts concluded after Monday's trading that the stock market's downturn should prove temporary.

STOCK page 2

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton invited Chinese President Jiang Zemin for a private chat Tuesday night before their formal summit, hoping the personal touch would help narrow the gap in their political views.

Jiang and Clinton discussed human rights, Tibet and Taiwan — three contentious issues. The discussion was described by National Security Adviser Sandy Berger as "long, almost philosophical."

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright pledged Tuesday that the U.S.-China talks will be "candid and comprehensive," including on the American request that the Chinese release political prisoners.

Albright said human rights won't be allowed to overshadow the summit: "We cannot have our relationship with China held hostage to any single issue. ... This is not a one-issue summit," she said.

"I find it encouraging that China has decided to invite three prominent American religious leaders to China" to talk about human rights, Albright told reporters. She referred to representatives of Catholic, Evangelical and Jewish groups.

She voiced disappointment that Beijing hasn't freed dissidents prior to the summit. "We would like them to take some action," she said.

Jiang, who speaks halting English, and Clinton, who is fluent in the ways of wooing world leaders, were to meet for about an hour in the White House residence Tuesday evening without other officials present.

The meeting was to be more social than an attempt to address disputes about human rights, trade and arms sales, administration officials said Monday. The gregarious Clinton has used similar one-on-one problem-solving tactics with leaders such as Russian President Boris Yeltsin and German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, a favorite dining partner.

"With Kohl, Clinton can belly up to the bar," said Jonathan Pollack, an Asia expert at Rand Corp., a Santa Monica, Calif. think tank. But with Jiang and Clinton, he said: "There's not a sense that these two leaders are confident enough to lower their guard and speak to each other candidly."

At his first meeting with Jiang at the 1993 Asia Pacific Economic

BACK IN HISTORY: Chinese President Jiang Zemin and his wife, Wang Ye Ping, wave while wearing Colonial hats in front of the restored demonstration is planned for today in Lafayette Park.

Governor's Palace in Williamsburg, Va., Tuesday. President Clinton invited Jiang for a private chat Tuesday prior to their official summit.

On Capitol Hill, where Jiang is to meet legislative leaders Thursday, freed Chinese dissident Harry Wu testified about China's human rights record before a House International Relations subcommittee.

JIANG page 3

New England residents fear HIV from flu shots

Associated Press

MONROE, Conn. — Hundreds of residents who received flu shots at town-sponsored clinics fear they may have been exposed to the hepatitis and AIDS viruses because a doctor failed to change syringes between patients.

More than 450 residents, most of them elderly, packed a high school auditorium Tuesday and grilled state health officials for several hours about the possible risk.

State health officials said the chance of exposure to any blood-borne virus was extremely remote, but recommended those who got the shots to be inoculated against hepatitis B as a precaution.

Those who received the flu shots are considered low risk for HIV and there was no indication any of the patients had either virus.

Dr. Claude Light resigned as town medical director Monday after state health officials received a complaint that he failed to change syringes for each patient while administering flu shots to 468 people at clinics earlier this month.

Light said he used fresh needles for every patient but didn't realize that Centers for Disease Control and Prevention standards require that the syringe also be changed for each patient. He used one syringe for each vial of flu vaccine, which contains 10 to 12 doses.

"When (the standards) changed, I probably should have changed, but I didn't know," said Light, who had been medical director for 30 years. "I thought what I was doing was risk free, no problem."

State epidemiologist Aaron Roome said exposure could only come if blood from an infected person was drawn back into the syringe, and then was injected into the next person.

"The risk is extremely low. It's a remote possibility," Roome said.

"As a precaution, we're recommending the vaccine," he said.

By MARIESA WHITAKER AND CAMERON FULLER
University Staff Writers

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has received permission to build a temple in Billings, Mont.

The Billings City Council voted 10-1 Monday night to grant final approval of plans to build the temple on the city's west end, according to The Associated Press.

This decision follows a 14-month-long series of petitions, public hearings and debates incited by the LDS Church's Aug. 31, 1996, announcement of plans to build the temple.

The council's decision imposes certain technical restrictions on the temple's operation. First, lights illuminating the building must be turned off by 10:30 p.m. These lights, and those illuminating the parking lot, may not exceed the limit of brightness stipulated in the Montana Energy Code. Second, the LDS Church will not be allowed to build a visitors center or a missionary training center at the temple site.

"We feel the City Council's conditions are fair and appropriate," said Richard Larsen, chairman of the Billings Temple Task Force Committee.

Larsen said long hours have been spent by his committee and other LDS Church members in the area to secure the decision.

Much of the effort involved addressing community concerns against the temple's construction.

"There were a number of legitimate concerns on the part of the neighbors," he said. "They were concerned about the amount of traffic the temple would attract, increased noise levels and the size of the building. The church addressed each of these concerns one by one."

After the first request for annexation was denied, the church conducted a neighborhood meeting and identified most of the neighborhood's concerns, Larsen said. As a result, the temple and the property for the subdivision were redesigned to meet acceptable standards.

Billings City Council member Michael Beisz, sole dissenter in the vote, opposed the decision because he felt the neighborhood's demands were not respected.

"I believe the taxpayers of Billings were fully ignored by the LDS Church," he said.

Beisz said the debate over the temple was turned into a religious issue, but it should have been primarily a land-use, taxpayer and neighborhood issue.

The church did nothing to alleviate the specific concerns brought up by residents, Beisz said. The church did not bend to adapt the temple in Billings for their needs, he said.

"You (the LDS Church) chose not to be neighborly in Billings, Mont.," Beisz said.

LDS Church members in the area hope to alleviate any negative feelings that remain in the community.

"We're going to do all we can to heal the wounds," Larsen said. "Although we've disagreed on an issue, for the most part we have good relations individually with the people who opposed construction of the temple."

The temple will serve 18 stakes in Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming.

News Briefs

Compiled from staff and news service reports

Charles to meet Spice Girls in Africa

LONDON — Prince Charles and his 13-year-old son Prince Harry flew to South Africa Tuesday night for an official visit, a safari and a meeting with the Spice Girls.

It was their first trip since the Aug. 31 death of Harry's mother, Princess Diana, in a Paris car crash.

Harry and his brother, Prince William, 15, returned to school about two weeks after their mother's death. William was unable to go to South Africa because his school break will end too soon.

Harry will attend two public engagements with his father in South Africa - a Spice Girls charity concert at Johannesburg Stadium Nov. 1 and a Nov. 3 visit to the Kwazulu village of Duku Duku.

While Charles carries out engagements in Swaziland and Lesotho before traveling on to Pretoria, Harry will go on a short safari in an undisclosed area. Royal aide Tiggy Legge-Bourke is traveling with the two boys.

Hilton renovates Romanian hotel

BUCHAREST, Romania — In its wartime heyday, the Athenee Palace Hotel was the picture of high intrigue: Nazi officers, diplomats, spies and refugees passed one another in its corridors.

Decades later, the Bucharest hotel degenerated into a hangout for prostitutes and secret police agents.

Tuesday, the Athenee underwent another transformation. Under management of the Hilton chain, the hotel is aiming to attract business people hunting for profits in a new and largely untamed market.

Built in 1914 next to Romania's Royal Palace, the Athenee symbolized the period between the world wars when Bucharest was dubbed the Paris of the East.

The hotel gained a reputation as the most elegant — and most notorious — hotel in the Balkans during World War II.

With Communists in control after the war, the hotel's staff kept watch on foreign visitors and reported to the secret police.

After Communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu was overthrown and executed in 1989, Hilton signed an agreement in 1993 to restore it to its former glory.

Some familiar signs of the hotel remain. Rooms go for $300 to $740 a night.

Painter admits beheading mermaid

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — More than 30 years after a crime that shocked Denmark, the culprit may finally be known in the beheading of The Little Mermaid.

The statue of a mermaid gazing wistfully out over Copenhagen's harbor is one of the Danish capital's most beloved landmarks, drawing a half-million tourists a year.

Some people find the statue cloying. The late painter Henrik Bruun was one — and the Politiken newspaper reported Tuesday that he told friends he was the one who lopped off the statue's head in 1964.

The decapitation of the statue received worldwide attention. The statue was given a new head modeled after the old one.

Congressman's wife gets probation

CHICAGO — The wife of former Rep. Mel Reynolds was given a three-year probation for forging finance statements while serving as her husband's campaign treasurer.

Melis Reynolds pleaded guilty in November 1996 to defrauding the Federal Election Commission.

U.S. District Judge Charles Norgle cited her acceptance of responsibility and cooperation with prosecutors Monday in placing her on probation, with no fines or restitution.

"I am not proud of my choice that has brought me to court," she said.

She said her actions were affected by "legitimate fear and intimidation."

In July, Norgle sentenced Reynolds to six-and-a-half years in prison. The former Democratic congressman was convicted of lying to banks to get hundreds of thousands of dollars in loans and falsifying reports to federal officials concerning his campaign funds.

Weather

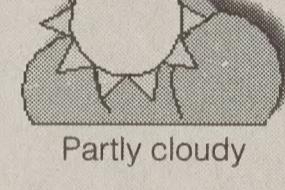

Yesterday

High 62 as of Low 32 5 p.m.

Precipitation

Yesterday none
Month to date 1.64" Season 1.64"

Today

Partly cloudy

High low 60s
Low high 30s

Thursday

Mostly cloudy

High low 60s
Low low 40s

Sources: BYU Geography Dept., The Weather Channel

The Daily Universe

Offices
2150 ELWC
Brigham Young University
Provo, Utah 84602

Fax (801) 378-2959 http://newsnet.byu.edu e-mail: letters@byu.edu

Subscription $38/yr $18/4 mo

News
(801) 378-2957
Advertising
(801) 378-4591

Entire contents Copyright 1997 by The Daily Universe

The Daily Universe is an official publication of Brigham Young University and is produced as a cooperative enterprise of students and faculty. It is published as a laboratory newspaper by the Department of Communications under the direction of a managing director and editorial and advertising directors, and with the counsel of a policy advisory board.

The Daily Universe is published Monday through Friday during Fall and Winter semesters, except during vacation and examination periods. The Universe is published Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday during Spring and Summer terms.

Opinions expressed do not necessarily reflect the views of the student body, faculty, university administration, or Board of Trustees or The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

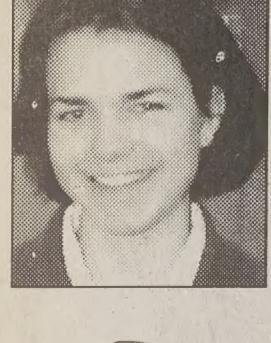

Managing Editor Jerry Gower
Display Adv. Manager Clinton McKinlay
Adv. Art Director Nicole Bonilla
Promotions Director Gabe Bellville
Editor-in-Chief Brian Deaver
Copy Chief Peter Christensen
Associate Copy Chief Susan Cottrell
Associate Copy Chief Noelle Barker
Associate Copy Chief Carmen Cole
Associate Copy Chief Angela Drake
Associate Copy Chief Ashley Hibdon
Associate Copy Chief Catherine Langford
City Editor Jay Spear
Associate City Editor Melinda Jones
Associate City Editor Shawn Dickerson
Campus Editor Margaret Nell
Associate Campus Editor Misti Pincock
Associate Campus Editor Kristen Sonne
Associate Campus Editor Gleon Wall
Sports Editor Jonathan Bagley
Associate Sports Editor Erik Rasmussen
Associate Sports Editor Darren Wilcox
Lifestyle Editor Eric D. Snider

Associate Lifestyle Editor Chris Peterson
World/National Editor Sara Panag
Assoc. World/Nat'l Editor Brent Orozco
Assoc. World/Nat'l Editor Kirsten T. Ivie
Photo/Video Editor Shawnessy Odell
Associate Photo Editor Christina Kemeny
Associate Photo Editor Shannon Henry
Monday Editor Ashley Baker
Opinion Editor Marci von Savoye
Special Projects Editor Michelle Kowalski
Assoc. Spec. Proj. Editor Kelleigh Cole
News Editor Kerilynn Wilcox
Associate News Editor Katelyn Shriner
Associate News Editor Jon Mano
NewsNet Editor Darcy Kirkham
Assoc. NewsNet Editor Lane Anderson
Assoc. NewsNet Editor Mark Stringham
Night Editor Mary Williams
Graphics Editor John Lepinski
Assoc. Graphics Editor Justin Kunz
Assoc. Graphics Editor David Regnier
Virtual Banyan Editor Christina Reynolds
Assoc. Virt. Ban. Editor Melinda Beal

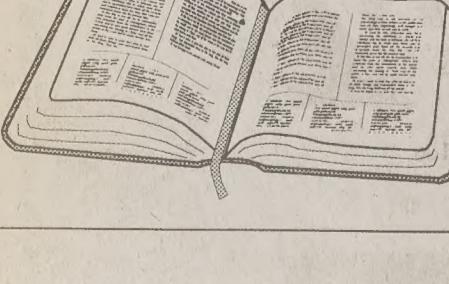

Scripture of the Day

"And I do this for a wise purpose; for thus it whispereth me, according to the workings of the Spirit of the Lord which is in me. And now, I do not know all things; but the Lord knoweth all things which are to come. . . ."

— Words of Mormon 1:7

Nicole Crofts likes this scripture "because of Mormon's convictions about the will of God. His humility before God shows . . . he can do the will of God through the Spirit." Crofts is a junior from Plano, Texas, majoring in English.

Catholic LIFE Teen welcomes diversity

By MARIESA WHITAKER
University Staff Writer

LIFE Teen, a teen ministry started by a Catholic priest in 1985, is now enjoying success in Utah.

The first chapter of the LIFE Teen Program in Utah was founded at the St. Francis of Assisi Parish in Provo three weeks ago.

The success of the program in Provo reflects the success of LIFE Teen throughout the United States.

More than 30,000 teen-agers in more than 400 parishes throughout the country participate in LIFE Teen activities.

The purpose of these activities is "to create an atmosphere which leads high school teen-agers into a relationship with God through the teachings of Jesus Christ and his Church," according to LIFE Teen's national website.

Although the program is centered around the Eucharist (mass) of the Catholic church, weekly activities consist of participation in mass followed by discussions of teen-oriented religious and social issues. Leaders of the Provo LIFE Teen Program emphasize the program is for everyone.

"LIFE Teen is actually a very ecumenical program," said Joseph Morrow, youth minister for the Provo LIFE Teen. "It attracts youth of all religions and of no religion."

"We've been a little surprised here at the turnout of kids who aren't Catholics," Morrow said. "What's more surprising is that they're coming back."

Morrow attributes the attraction of the program to the upbeat and youth-oriented tone of the LIFE Teen services.

"There is a definite tone to the mass that is specifically youth oriented," he said. "Part of that is because of the music we use during the liturgy. It sounds closer to what other people would identify with evangelical Christian music than with the more dignified approach that people assume is true about the Catholic mass."

Clay Kugler, a BYU senior majoring in psychology from Gilroy, Calif., is the leader of the music for the Provo LIFE Teen Program.

"We use drums, guitars and vocals," Kugler said. "We play upbeat music that relates to teen-agers but it's also uplifting and appropriate."

The program attempts to stay focused on Christ-centered issues that teens of all religions can relate to, Morrow said.

Issues the Provo group has discussed include the participants' beliefs about God and dealing with Christ as a friend.

"We've had several LDS kids come to the discussions who seem to enjoy it," he said. "They've had opportunities to share their testimonies and add significantly to the discussions."

Morrow said the LIFE Teen Program is not dedicated to teaching youth of other faiths about the Catholic church.

"I am thrilled that kids from other religions are coming here," he said. "If they ask about the Catholic church, we will tell them, but I'm comfortable if they're just as happy returning to their own church. If we encourage them to become more active in their own spiritual journey, we've done our job. The whole idea is to let kids know that church is a place to feel comfortable."

STOCK

from page 1

And analysts stressed that although plenty of U.S. companies do business in Asia, this nation's financial health is only slightly dependent on the fortunes of Southeast Asia.

The Dow's drop triggered two circuit breakers on the New York Stock Exchange Monday for the first time since they were put in place after the 1987 crash. The first circuit breaker, when the drop reached 350 points, closed the market for 30 minutes. The second, at 550, halted trading for the day.

With the close, the Dow had fallen 1,100 points, or 13.3 percent, from its Aug. 6 record of 8,259.31, ending an unprecedented run of seven years without a "correction." As of Monday's close, the Dow was still up 11 percent since Jan. 1.

Many individual investors said they would stand firm.

"It's very healthy to shake some of this out," said Larry Rice, chief investment officer at Josephthal, Lyon & Ross. "We have a very sound economy here. We're going to survive."

Anxiously Engaged
LOSEE
Jewelers
Only In COTTONTREE SQUARE
2230 North University Parkway #3
373-1000
Open late Fri. Eve. till 8:00
A TRADITION FOR ALMOST HALF A CENTURY

6 Utah County Locations
American Fork, Orem, Provo, Spanish Fork

Utah Valley State College

presents

November 1, 3, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14

7:30 p.m. Florence Bullock Ragan Theatre

Matinee November 11 at 2:00 p.m.

$6.50 General Admission

Make reservations now!!

222-8982

$1 Off with this Coupon
Into The Woods

Need More of This?

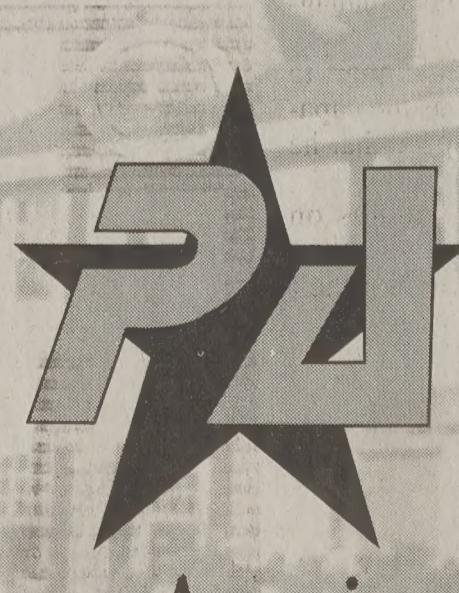

Let us help!

Work in one of the fastest growing product markets in America.

The home security industry is hotter than ever before and people are more concerned about their safety and more aware of the need to protect their homes and families. While most home security systems can be costly, Protect America offers an alternative for middle income America. Protect America gives away a state of the art home security system FREE of charge when the customer agrees to have their system monitored for a low monthly fee.

PEST CONTROL PRO'S

Sell a service that sells itself!

IN ADDITION, EARN AN EXTRA
$1,500 TO $10,000 OR MORE
IN SUMMER BONUSES!

For an appointment call us at 1-800-600-9419 and ask for Becton, Oliver or Scott.

Now hiring for all sales positions. Manager positions still available. Also hiring for technical positions.

RECEIVE DAILY, WEEKLY, & MONTHLY INCENTIVES
WE PAY YOU EVERY TWO WEEKS!

Sell in the Hottest Markets Nationwide

- New Mexico
- Arizona
- California
- Texas
- North Carolina
- Utah
- Florida
- Colorado

Many other locations available

Scripture of the Day

"And I do this for a wise purpose; for thus it whispereth me, according to the workings of the Spirit of the Lord which is in me. And now, I do not know all things; but the Lord knoweth all things which are to come. . . ."

— Words of Mormon 1:7

Nicole Crofts likes this scripture "because of Mormon's convictions about the will of God. His humility before God shows . . . he can do the will of God through the Spirit." Crofts is a junior from Plano, Texas, majoring in English.

Opponents for Provo City Council's city-council Daley, left, and Gregory A. Hudnall, sit another at Meet the Candidates Night.

Growth, safety concern Hudnall

By MARIESA WHITAKER
University Staff Writer

Growing Provo City's rapid growth concern Greg Hudnall, who is currently representing District in the Provo City Council.

"An important issue in Provo right now is growth."

We need to deal with growth in a slow manner to concentrate sufficiently on all the issues it is expanded too fast, and the result is too many other things."

Solutions for Provo's traffic problem include a 320 N. Geneva Road, sensors that regulate traffic flow and the establishment of a north-south corridor that handles the traffic said. "Now we need to improve the east-

v."

for an environmental impact study to determine which vehicles that should be allowed on the roads, public safety is an issue concerning the addition of 17 new police officers in and programs to help youth stay out of trouble."

Concerned with the welfare of senior citizens on the senior citizens, especially as we move more in the community," he said.

Bonding is another of his concerns.

to balance bonding and bonding," he said.

make sure that we can pay for bonding before we can't afford it, it puts us in bondage."

Concerned that too much bonding leads to too much bonding.

He earned his associate's degree at Ricks College and a degree at BYU. He then earned a master's degree at the University of Utah and an administrative assistant at BYU. Hudnall is the principal of High School in Provo.

Wolf will get to

vote for mayor of

Houston, six City Council positions

and city controller. He can also vote on whether to eliminate Houston's

affirmative action program.

Voting should help ease the isolation

that astronauts on months-long flights

typically feel, said Susan Anderson,

the voting-from-space project manager

at Johnson Space Center.

"It opens another door of support to

him to make him feel he has the capability of doing things in space that he could do at home," she said.

Blaha, who spent four months on

Mir, said the point is to give astronauts the opportunity to exercise their rights as Americans.

"You're still a member of society, and I think that's an important thing for space travelers."

—David Wolf, Mir astronaut

Wolf will get to

vote for mayor of

Houston, six City Council positions

and city controller. He can also vote on whether to eliminate Houston's

affirmative action program.

Voting should help ease the isolation

that astronauts on months-long flights

typically feel, said Susan Anderson,

the voting-from-space project manager

at Johnson Space Center.

"It opens another door of support to

him to make him feel he has the capability of doing things in space that he could do at home," she said.

Blaha, who spent four months on

Mir, said the point is to give astronauts the opportunity to exercise their

rights as Americans.

CONDOS PAYMENTS STARTING AT $450/MONTH!*

Nicest floor plans in the valley—come take a tour.

1400 NORTH 1200 WEST, OREM

STONE BROOK CONDOMINIUMS

CALL 377-0400, 351-2265

*Conditions and restrictions apply.

FROM $89.900!

Daley proposes budget reform

By DEON YOUNG
University Staff Writer

Provo City Council candidate Jim Daley said budget is and always will be the biggest concern for Provo. Daley is running for the citywide Council seat.

Daley, a former Council member said by reducing the city's budget, more projects can be funded without increasing taxes.

His first priority is to protect the taxpayers' dollars. Experience is the best teacher, and he has had experience on the Council, he said.

The budget was decreased during the 1993-1994 fiscal year.

If those budget decreases could have been maintained, there would not have been a need to raise taxes and create a bond for the renovation of Academy Square, Daley said.

The current administration in Provo neglects to track where budget dollars are spent.

Various offices spend more money than is necessary to guarantee it will receive the same amount the next year.

This money can be saved to solve other problems in Provo, Daley said.

For example, the city needs to start buying land for new roads. Provo needs to plan now for the needs of the future, Daley said.

Daley compared building new roads to planting a tree.

The best time to plant a tree was 20 years ago. The next best time to plant a tree is today, he said.

Planning for roads is like planting the tree. Provo should have been buying land for new roads several years ago, but Provo now needs to plan for what he believes to be inevitable highways around both east and west Provo, Daley said.

First, Provo needs to finish the highway on the west side while improving collector routes in and out of the city, he said.

"The issues don't get easier," Daley said.

Federal government will place more stringent regulations on Provo after the 2000 census. "We need to be preparing now," he said.

Daley is a native of Provo.

Astronaut to vote from Mir

Associated Press

HUTTER, Houston — For

the first time in history, an American will vote to exercise his right to orbit.

John Blaha's inability to last old

intee

be

email.

Gov.

Bush

ying

egis

in bal-

ers.

software developed by

J. Sirvello III, Harris

son's chief, sent a ballot

U.S. flight controllers in they transmitted it to above Earth.

old doctor and engineered on the station in a four-month stay, will on a laptop computer,

p.m. CST on Nov. 4, to get the ballot back to the flight controllers in read Wolf's e-mail and by hand with the astro-

astronaut to vote from Mir

on Oct. 29, 1997.

Wolf will get to

vote for mayor of

Houston, six City Council positions

and city controller. He can also vote on whether to eliminate Houston's

affirmative action program.

Voting should help ease the isolation

that astronauts on months-long flights

typically feel, said Susan Anderson,

the voting-from-space project manager

at Johnson Space Center.

"It opens another door of support to

him to make him feel he has the capability of doing things in space that he could do at home," she said.

Blaha, who spent four months on

Mir, said the point is to give astronauts the opportunity to exercise their

rights as Americans.

JIANG from page 1

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also was hosting a group of Chinese dissidents who were asking Clinton to urge Jiang to order the release of political prisoners. Helms said he won't skip tonight's state dinner in honor of Jiang, however.

"I'm not going to be a party to anything that's rude. I'm not going to thumb my nose at the guy, nor am I going to embrace him," Helms said. "I want him to understand that the American people ... are concerned about the dismal human rights record of the People's Republic of China."

Helms and Republican Sen. Richard Shelby of Alabama, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, also wrote Clinton Monday to object to his plans to certify that China no longer was assisting other nation's nuclear weapons programs and has ended its cooperation with Iran. This would allow the U.S. nuclear industry to export technology to China for the first time.

"We believe that implementation of this agreement, now or in the immediate future, would be premature at a time when China continues its destabilizing transfers of nuclear, missile, chemical and biological weapons technology, and advanced conventional weapons," they wrote.

White House press secretary Mike McCurry said Clinton would act in the best interests of national security. "And it would be manifestly in our interest to encourage the People's Republic to make important new commitments with respect to technology transfer, specifically in sensitive missile technology areas," he said. "That would be a step forward."

Glamour Trick and Treat

USE OUR COSTUMES OR BRING YOUR OWN

FREE 8x10
HALLOWEEN
SPECIALTY PORTRAIT
($34.95 value)
with purchase of any package

After

Before

Lil Devil

Cat Woman

SHOOTING STARS
CONTEMPORARY MAKEOVER PHOTOGRAPHY

Peace prize a 'political act'

By MAUREEN JONES
University Staff Writer

The selection of the Nobel Peace Prize winners must evolve with the changing sentiments and values of the world, said the chairman of the Nobel Peace Prize selection committee at the Forum Tuesday.

Francis Sejersted said the awarding of the Nobel Peace Prize is a political act and has political effects. He is a professor of economic and social history at the University of Oslo and the director of the Centre for Technology and Culture.

The criteria in determining who wins the prize each year has a wide range, he said. This range includes humanitarian efforts, work towards advocating peace and human rights activity.

Sejersted said past winners of the peace prize have been categorized according to time period.

From 1901 to World War I, winners were people who mainly organized peace movements. During the years between World War I and World War II, statesmen comprised a majority of the winners.

Following World War II, things began to change, Sejersted said.

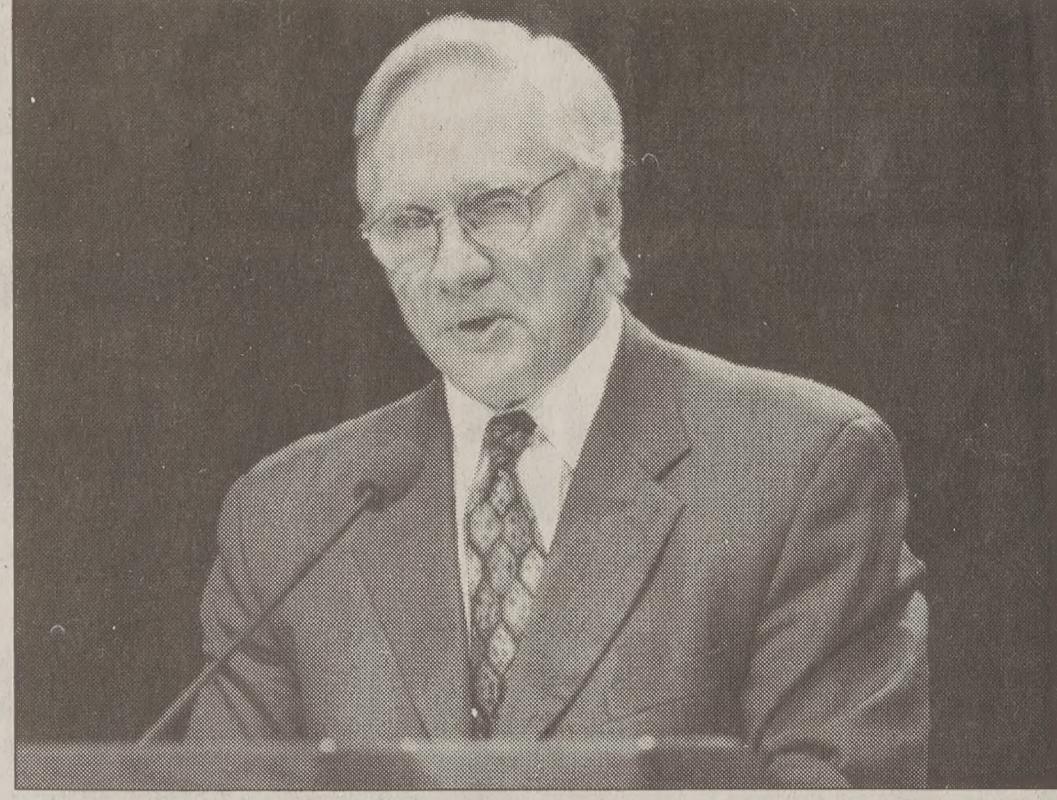

Human rights emerged as something people were concerned about, he said. This began to influence the committee's selection for the prize.

From 1960 to the present time, more people who have crusaded for human rights have been awarded the prize than ever before, he said.

"Ethnic cleansing and atrocities now shape the Western world and the Third World," Sejersted said.

This caused people to realize the problem of the lack of human rights in the world was present everywhere, he said.

Criticism has risen as a result of the broadened definition of peace the selection committee has adapted

Jon Orton/Daily Universe

EXPLAINING PEACE: Francis Sejersted described the Nobel Peace Prize selection process in Tuesday's Forum as a "political act" with "political effects." Sejersted is the chairman of the selection committee and said selection criteria change according to changing values.

to fit the changing climate of the world, he said.

Sejersted said Alfred Nobel originally designated in his will that the peace prize should be awarded to "the person who shall have done the most for ... fraternity between the nations, the abolition of standing armies and the holding of and promotion of peace congresses."

A more modern concept of peace has developed, though, he said.

"Winners of the peace prize must have peace rooted in their hearts and minds and work to overcome the evil principle in man," Sejersted said.

This means winners are chosen from people who work for universal human rights and try to deter war, he said.

At times, the choice of winners is criticized for being contradictory to the concept of peace, he said.

"The peace prize has been given to representatives of two parties in conflict in the past," Sejersted said.

This may seem to contradict peace, but the purpose of doing this is to promote reconciliation, he said.

The Nobel Peace Prize is unique from the other Nobel Prizes because it is the only award to be awarded in Norway, Sejersted said.

Nobel stipulated in his will that the Norwegian Parliament should designate five people to a selection committee, he said.

The committee must be autonomous from the parliament. Sejersted said committee members are no longer allowed to serve in politics because of conflicts of interest.

Fellowships

SPENCER DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIPS The Spencer Foundation awards 30 fellowships to support the completion of a student's dissertation dealing with an education-related topic. Applications must be requested by the students by October before applications are due.

ALEXANDER VON HUMBOLDT BUNDESANZLER SCHOLARSHIPS This year-long award is for students who have knowledge of the German language to study in Germany. Scholarships are awarded annually to students in the humanities, social sciences, law and economics. The deadline is Oct. 31.

AWARD FOR STUDY IN SCANDINAVIA These grants are made available for U.S. citizens who have language skills in Icelandic, Finnish, Danish, Norwegian or Swedish. The applicants must have finished their undergraduate education. Deadline is Nov. 1.

DAAD GERMAN ACADEMIC EXCHANGE SERVICE This is an opportunity for students who speak German to study in Germany. Grants, travel awards and seminars are available to both faculty and students. Summer programs for studying German in Germany are also available. The deadline for grants for study and research is Nov. 1. The deadline for the summer program is Jan. 31.

AMELIA EARHART FELLOWSHIP AWARDS FOR WOMEN This fellowship is for women pursuing degrees in aerospace-related sciences. To apply, a woman must have a bachelor's degree in a qualifying area of science or engineering. Deadline is Nov. 15.

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION FELLOWSHIPS

TION FELLOWSHIPS These fellowships are awarded for study in the mathematical, physical, biological, engineering, behavioral and social sciences, and in the history and philosophy of science. Deadline is Nov. 6. Separate competitions are held for the Graduate Fellowships and the Minority Graduate Fellowships. Minorities, women and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

HARRY S. TRUMAN SCHOLARSHIP This scholarship awards merit-based scholarships to students who pursue careers in government or elsewhere in public service. Applicants must be U.S. citizens. Deadline is Nov. 14.

CHARLOTTE W. NEWCOMBE DISERTATION FELLOWSHIPS

These awards are for Ph.D. candidates who are writing their dissertations on topics of religious and ethical values in any field. Deadline is Nov. 15.

HOWARD HUGHES MEDICAL INSTITUTE — NIH RESEARCH SCHOLARS PROGRAM

This program is for current medical students going into their third or fourth year of medical school. Deadline is Nov. 15.

FORD FOUNDATION PREDOCTORAL AND DISSERTATION FELLOWSHIPS FOR MINORITIES

This fellowship is available for minority students pursuing a doctoral degree in behavioral and social sciences, humanities, engineering, mathematics, physical science and biological science. Deadline for application is Nov. 15.

HOWARD HUGHES PREDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS IN THE BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

The Howard Hughes Medical Institute will award fellowships for full-time study toward a Ph.D. or Sc.D. degree in the biological sciences. This fellowship is not intended for those who are pursuing a medical or dental degree. Deadline is Nov. 15.

NATIONAL PHYSICAL SCIENCE CONSORTIUM GRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS FOR MINORITIES AND WOMEN The National Physical Science Consortium offers a six-year doctoral fellowship program in astronomy, chemistry, computer science, geology, materials science, mathematical sciences, physics and sub-disciplines. The deadline is Nov. 15.

ANDREW W. MELLON FELLOWSHIPS IN HUMANISTIC STUDIES This fellowship is for students who plan on careers in teaching in humanistic studies. Students who are entering their first year of a Ph.D. program are eligible. Deadline for requesting an application is Dec. 8.

WHITAKER GRADUATE FELLOWSHIPS IN BIOMEDICAL ENGINEERING These fellowships are for students who are going into a Ph.D. or Sc.D. program in biomedical engineering. Applicants must be U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Deadline is Dec. 10.

BARRY M. GOLDWATER SCHOLARSHIP This scholarship is for undergraduate students who pursue a career in mathematics, the natural sciences or engineering. Students who are in their sophomore or junior year are eligible to apply. Deadline is Dec. 15.

HAILEY HUGHES PREDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS IN THE BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

The Howard Hughes Medical Institute will award fellowships for full-time study toward a Ph.D. or Sc.D. degree in the biological sciences. This fellowship is not intended for those who are pursuing a medical or dental degree. Deadline is Nov. 15.

For more information regarding these or other fellowships, call 378-3036 or visit the Office of General Education and Honors in 350 MSRB.

You're you again.

It's like you never lost your hair.

- Look like you did before hair loss
- Places hair on your scalp without surgery
- Only skin comes between you and your new hair
- Touch it, towel it, treat it like growing hair

HRS at Bon Loco

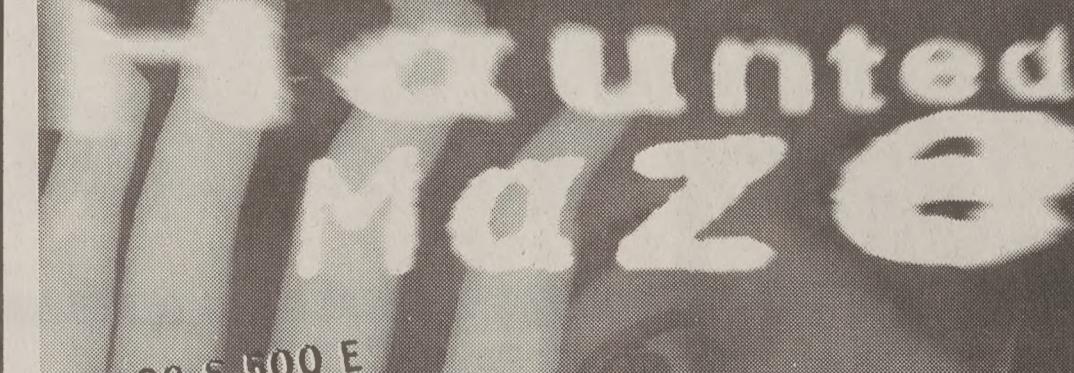

375-8899

2230 N. University Pkwy. Bldg #4B

Cottonree Square • Provo 84604

Send in for a free brochure

As seen on TV Nationally

It's like you never lost your hair.

- Look like you did before hair loss
- Places hair on your scalp without surgery
- Only skin comes between you and your new hair
- Touch it, towel it, treat it like growing hair

HRS at Bon Loco

375-8899

2230 N. University Pkwy. Bldg #4B

Cottonree Square • Provo 84604

Send in for a free brochure

As seen on TV Nationally

938 S 500 E
American Fork
take 5th east AF exit (#279)
Right by haunted forest

Haunted Maze begins at 7:30 pm weekends 7:30-midnight

Only $35
We dare you to find your way out!

$1 OFF
Coupon
(one per person)

107.5 The End's Haunted Dave will be @ the Haunted Maze on Thursday, Oct. 30 from 7:30 - 9pm!!

Utah County in need of volunteers to teach English to school children

By SHANNA GHAZNAVI

Universe Staff Writer

Utah County needs tutors to help limited English-speaking elementary students pass the language barrier, said a director of Utah County's family literacy program.

"Our very best tutors are from BYU or UVSC," said Becky Miner, director of the family literacy program in Orem and Provo.

Miner said the key to helping students become English literate is a one-to-one tutoring experience. She said tutors are needed who know enough of a language to help a child to learn English. Spanish speakers are in the most demand she said, but "anything helps."

The children do not gain much out of school if they can't understand what is going on around them, Miner said.

The state of Utah funds some literacy programs for foreign children, Miner said. "As far as funding is concerned, they're not catching up with the need."

Miner said a new Hispanic family moves into a Utah County school district every week, and the children in the family often do not speak English.

C. Ray Graham, a BYU associate linguistics professor who is also a member of the family literacy board of directors, said volunteers "can enrich the adult-student ratio to the point where the children can get help."

Graham said the family literacy program stresses early intervention, and if volunteers help children with limited English, "it makes all the difference in the world in terms of educational success" for the children.

The family literacy program is a non-profit organization which started about two and a half years ago,

Miner said. The program takes families whose children have fallen behind two or three grade levels in their reading and pair them with a volunteer to tutor them, she said.

The tutoring can improve the students' reading level by anywhere from a half a grade to two grades, Miner said.

Volunteer tutors go to a small number of training classes, and then they are trained on site, Miner said. She said volunteers could give as little as one hour a week to tutor children

EYE EXAMS $35*

*2 week disposable contacts only $16.96 per pair

Dr. Geoffrey A. Bullock OD

1313 So. University Ave

812-EYES (3937)

*contact lens exams slightly higher

Coupon

TRANSMISSION TUNE SERVICES INCLUDE

Reg. $38

$16

- Labor to change transmission fluid
- Band & Linkage adjustment
- Replace pan gasket
- Road test & Performance evaluation

J&M'S TRANSMISSION CLINIC
CLUTCH EXPERTS

Coupon

PROV
855 S. Univ
Ave.
375-322

PEDERSEN'S SKI & SPORTS

SNOWBOARD
SALE

COMPLETE
MORROW
SNOWBOARD
PACKAGE DEAL

MODEL "T" BOARD

SIMS HIGH FIVE BINDINGS

HILLSIDE BOOTS

MOUNTING & ADJUSTMENTS

SALE PRICE:

$259.99

TOTAL VALUE $625

COMPLETE
DOGTOWN
SNOWBOARD
PACKAGE DEAL

DOGTOWN
SNOWBOARD

BASELESS BINDINGS

HEELSIDE BOOTS

MOUNTING & ADJUSTMENTS

SALE PRICE:

$219.99

TOTAL VALUE $58

PEDERSEN'S

SKI & SPORTS

UNIVERSITY MALL • O

225-3000

VISA MasterCard DISCOVER AMERICAN EXPRESS

© 1995 HRS

As seen on TV Nationally

Employees' e-mail privacy rights unclear

By SHANNA GHAZNAVI
University Staff Writer

Electronic privacy rights for employees in company networks remain unclear.

Most lawyers agree that, under present laws, workers do not have privacy rights on in-house computer systems unless their employer explicitly gives them those rights, according to Larry Berg, a Net law specialist.

A recent Gallup poll stated 90 percent of all large companies, 64 percent of mid-sized and 42 percent of small businesses use e-mail. More than 40 million workers correspond via e-mail. According to the poll, that number is increasing by 20 percent each year.

With more than three billion inter-office messages being sent each month, according to the Gallup poll, many lawyers suggest that companies have a clear e-mail policy in place.

"Employees may think they have privacy, but I would not bet my career on it," said David C. Kurland, a human-computer interaction specialist.

In 1986, the Electronic Communication Privacy Act outlawed the interception of e-mail by anyone not a party to the communication.

There are, however, exceptions to the ECPA. The act defines electronic communications as "any transfer of signs, signals writings ... transmitted in whole or in part by a ... system that affects interstate or foreign commerce."

Some courts rule against an employee's right to e-mail privacy in the workplace based on the assumption intercepting e-mail is not encompassed by the ECPA since it does not affect interstate or foreign commerce.

Also, there is no ECPA violation if an e-mail system provider intercepts communications "in the normal course of employment while engaged in an activity ... for the protection of the rights or property of the provider," according to the act.

In 1994, a Subcommittee on Labor-Management Relations approved the Privacy for Workers and Consumers Act. This act would require employers to notify workers when they are being electronically monitored or recorded while working.

Little action has been taken with respect to this proposed bill, according to more than one legal website.

An appropriations committee in Colorado is also considering a bill which would require private employers to notify employees about their privacy policies for e-mail. This bill would also limit the availability of e-mail that can be obtained under the state open-records law.

An employee's right to e-mail privacy is largely governed by state tort law, or "wrongful act other than a breach of contract for which relief may be obtained in the form of damages or an injunction," according to Webster's Dictionary.

A portion of tort law forbids "unreasonable intrusion upon the seclusion of another."

According to a legal website, the courts examine "the degree of intrusion, the context, conduct and circumstance surrounding the intrusion, as well as the intruders' motives and objectives, the setting into which he intrudes and the expectations of those whose privacy is invaded."

"It is my understanding that I have no expectation of privacy at work," Kurland said in an e-mail interview. He said he does not expect privacy because everything at his workplace belongs to his employer.

"The abdication of the right of privacy is not necessary in order to facilitate performance evaluations or to maximize profits," Berg said.

He also said if policies and procedures in the workplace create a reasonable expectation of privacy, and then those policies change without adequate notice to all affected, "the change should constitute an invasion of privacy."

Using tort law, a Pennsylvania U.S. District Court ruled that there was no reasonable expectation of e-mail privacy in the Michael Smyth v. Pillsbury case, even if the employer had repeatedly promised that employee e-mail would not be intercepted.

Smyth's employer had intercepted an e-mail message in which Smyth had threatened to kill sales managers. After his dismissal, as a result of his e-mail, Smyth brought suit against Pillsbury claiming that his rights of privacy had been violated under public policy and that he had been wrongfully discharged.

Jonathan Wallace, general counsel and vice president of operations at Pencom Systems Inc., said he didn't think the district court had a solid understanding of the technology underlying e-mail.

The court ruled no one should have an expectation of privacy in mail sent via an e-mail system "utilized by the entire company." On a legal webpage Wallace said, "This, of course, is tantamount to saying that you shouldn't assume the privacy of mail sent U.S. Post, because the postal service is used by everyone."

Another reason Wallace said he doubted the court's ruling was the fact that the court never mentioned the ECPA in its ruling.

A Boston Law firm, Lucash, Gesmer and Updegrove, agrees with the District Court's ruling in its online technology bulletin.

"There is not constitutional 'right of privacy' for this form of communication (e-mail), since the Constitution protects U.S. Citizens only from certain intrusions by government, not by private companies." This bulletin, at www.lgu.com/cy50.htm, does not mention the ECPA.

A California court of appeals differed in a case similar to Smyth v. Pillsbury. According to the California court, in the case of Semore v. Pool, "the employee's privacy expectations must be balanced against the employer's interests. ... We think that there is a public policy concern in an individual's right to privacy."

The Semore v. Pool case did not deal specifically with e-mail privacy, but it is an example of a case where the court system interpreted public policy in favor of the employee.

A legal website recommends workplaces consider employee privacy rights, disclosure of confidential information, the right of unions to access company employees via e-mail and the rights of third parties to obtain access to company records.

The same security issues are not as big as a concern on the Internet. Unlike e-mail on an internal or company network, e-mail on the Internet is not routed through a central control point. Though it is possible for Internet e-mail to be viewed by computers between the sender and the recipient, third party interception is unlikely.

Internet e-mail is usually "packet" technology which breaks the message into pieces which may travel through different paths until reassembled for the recipient of the message, so third-party interception, though not likely, is still possible. In addition, e-mail can be encoded using passwords, test keys and encryption, according to a technology website.

Some other sensitive e-mail issues include defamation, sexual harassment, confidential information and inadvertent disclosure.

Illustration by Justin Kunz

Hey Kids! The Halloween Ween

Provo's Biggest Halloween Party

Friday, Oct. 31
9:00 - 1:30 am
at Powerhouse Gym
460 N. 900 E., Provo

Live Music By MY MAN FRIDAY
DOM CASUAL
of 107.5 The End

Costume Contest & Door Prizes
(Snow Board & Gear, Hats, Cds and More)

Tattoos, Trout, Fortune Telling, Bobbing For Meat, Wooooo

Our Proud Sponsors:
DP Sports
Snow Boards Wake Boards & More
Pre Register for Snow Board Give-Away at DP Sports in East Bay, Provo

Meat! I love it!
Sausage Dogs

Is Life FARE?

At Losce Jewelers, it's more than fare!

LOSEE

Jewelers

Only In COTTONTREE SQUARE

2230 North University Parkway #3 • Provo

373-1000

Open late Fri. Eve. till 8:00 p.m.

www.losee-jewelers.com

A TRADITION FOR ALMOST HALF A CENTURY

Come Learn About Us

Information Session

October 30, 1997

Tanner Building, Room 251

7:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m.

McKinsey invites graduating seniors from all majors to submit their resumes along with transcripts and ACT/GMAT/LSAT/GRE scores by November 6, 1997 to:

McKinsey & Company
400 South Hope Street
Suite 700
Los Angeles, CA 90071-2890
Attn: Susanne Mahoney

Visit our website at <http://www.mckinsey.com>

BRUSSELS	COPENHAGEN	HELSINKI	LONDON	MONTERREY	ORANGE COUNTY	PRAGUE	STAMFORD	WARSAW
BUDAPEST	DALLAS	HONG KONG	MADRID	MONTREAL	OSAKA	ROME	STOCKHOLM	WASHINGTON, D.C.
Buenos Aires	DUBLIN	HOUSTON	MELBOURNE	MOSCOW	OSLO	SAN FRANCISCO	STUTTGART	ZURICH
Caracas	DUSSELDORF	ISTANBUL	MEXICO CITY	MUMBAI	PACIFIC	SANTIAGO	SYDNEY
CHARLOTTE	FRANKFURT	JAKARTA	Miami	MUNICH	NORTHWEST	SAO PAULO	TAIPEI
CHICAGO	GENEVA	JOHANNESBURG	MILAN	NEW DELHI	PARIS	SEOUL	TOKYO
CLEVELAND	GOTHENBURG	KUALA LUMPUR	MNEAPOLIS	NEW JERSEY	PERTH	SHANGHAI	TORONTO
COLOGNE	HAMBURG	LISBON		NEW YORK	PITTSBURGH	SILICON VALLEY	VIENNA

An Equal Opportunity Employer

TODAY

Fleetwood Mac pleases crowd with yesterday's soulful tunes

By LANE ANDERSON
Associate Web Editor

THEATER — OPERETTA: BYU's production of "The Merry Widow," described as an "amusing love story," will be performed at 7:30 p.m. The story is full of plots, schemes, flirtations and romance. It will be performed in English, having been translated from German ("Die Lustige Witwe"), and has some dialogue mixed in with all the singing (making it an operetta, rather than an opera). Tickets are $9 general, $7 with student ID. Call 378-4322 for more information.

MUSIC — CLASSICAL PIANO: Internationally known pianist Massimiliano Frani will perform tonight in the Harris Fine Arts Center's Madsen Recital Hall. Admission is free. Frani will play classical music known for its "haunting beauty and technical difficulty," according to a news release.

MOVIES — INTERNATIONAL CINEMA: Here are the films at International Cinema (250 SWKT) this week. Please note that these times are for today only. "Picture Bride" (1994, 90 minutes) is a love story taking place during Hawaii's plantation era. It is in Japanese with English subtitles and will be shown at 5:05 and 8:50 p.m. "El Sur (The South)" (1986, 94 minutes) follows a young girl who searches for clues about her family's past. It is in Spanish with English subtitles and will be shown at 3:15 and 6:55 p.m. Admission for all shows is $1; free with IC card.

MOVIE — VARSITY THEATRE: Last year's mega-hit "Jerry Maguire" is at the Varsity Theatre again this week. Tom Cruise is an arrogant-but-handsome sports agent who falls in love and changes after someone shows him the money, or something. Show times are 7 p.m. and 9:45 p.m. tonight and Thursday. Admission is $1.50.

SEMINAR — WINTER OUTDOOR HEALTH: The REI store in Orem (322 W. University Pkwy.) will host a free seminar at 7 p.m. called "Winter Wilderness Medicine." Many people enjoy hiking, camping and doing other outdoor activities in the winter, but special precautions must be taken to guard against hypothermia and frostbite, among other things. Dr. Scott Young will present the seminar, which REI says will be "entertaining" and "interactive." Call 222-9500 for more information.

Concert Review

Twenty-two years after first coming together, Fleetwood Mac proved Tuesday night in the Delta Center that all good things come full cycle, from their timeless music down to Stevie Nicks' platform shoes.

"An Evening With Fleetwood Mac" marked the band's first reunion since Nicks and the rest of the crew went their own ways ten years ago. Since that time both Nicks and the remainder of the band have produced their own music with mixed results.

Following the breakup, many a Fleetwood fan attended the multiple-billed shows featuring the band, waiting to break into "Rhiannon," only to find the grass at Wolf Mountain extraordinarily fascinating while the band cranked out their new stuff that lacked the same smoky Fleetwood style.

For those longing to sing along "Thunder only happens when it's raaaaainin'," just like the good old days with Mom and Dad in the Chevy station wagon, this was their night.

The band put together a surprisingly tight show for a band that hasn't played together in its entirety for ten years. The band has matured nicely, and put on a no-nonsense, classy show. Emitting an opening band, the audience got nothing but uninterrupted Fleetwood Mac from "Gypsy" to "Dreams" to "Silver Springs."

The show slowed when the band paused to do a few numbers from the new album, "The Dance." Whether the audience was just too into the sing-along or the new music lacks the punchy quality of the old stuff, many audience members took this for a rest stop in the Chevy ride and took the occasion to use the bathroom.

One crowd-pleasing act was old Mick Fleetwood himself, at one point detaching himself from his drum kit and playing a drum "vest," pounding out rhythms from his own ribs while performing a macarena/rumba num-

Buy It! Sell It!
In the Classified Marketplace.

<http://www.repriserec.com/fleetwoodmac/photos.html>

THE MAC IS BACK: Members of the band Fleetwood Mac performed Tuesday night at the Delta Center in Salt Lake City. The band joined together in concert for the first time in 10 years.

their patronage — and was able to act their age, unlike so many maladjusted bands of the same era.

In kind, Tuesday's audience turned out to be well-behaved and appropriately rowdy. Fleetwood Mac has proved itself as one of the bands that is able to span generations, and everyone from my neighbor attending Provo Jr. High to my own Jr. High algebra teacher turned out for Mac's return.

The Delta Center was surprisingly full considering the ticket price ($66 for the lower bowl, $46 for the upper). It seems that artists tack an extra $10 for every year they are over forty. I'm going to have to get signed on to a record label myself to afford Neil Diamond next year.

The show slowed when the band paused to do a few numbers from the new album, "The Dance." Whether the audience was just too into the sing-along or the new music lacks the punchy quality of the old stuff, many audience members took this for a rest stop in the Chevy ride and took the occasion to use the bathroom.

One crowd-pleasing act was old

Mick Fleetwood himself, at one point detaching himself from his drum kit and playing a drum "vest," pounding out rhythms from his own ribs while performing a macarena/rumba number.

Guitarist Lindsey Buckingham, who initiated the reunion, dominated much of the program with his own solos and exceptional skill, whether he was playing acoustic guitar or a banjo for a twangier version of "Tusk."

Bass player John McVie and wife Christine on keyboards remained somewhat in the background, while even Nicks spent a marginal amount of time actually onstage, appearing between one Elvira-like wardrobe change to the next.

The overall show represents a strong comeback for Mac, proving that you can act your age and have a good time.

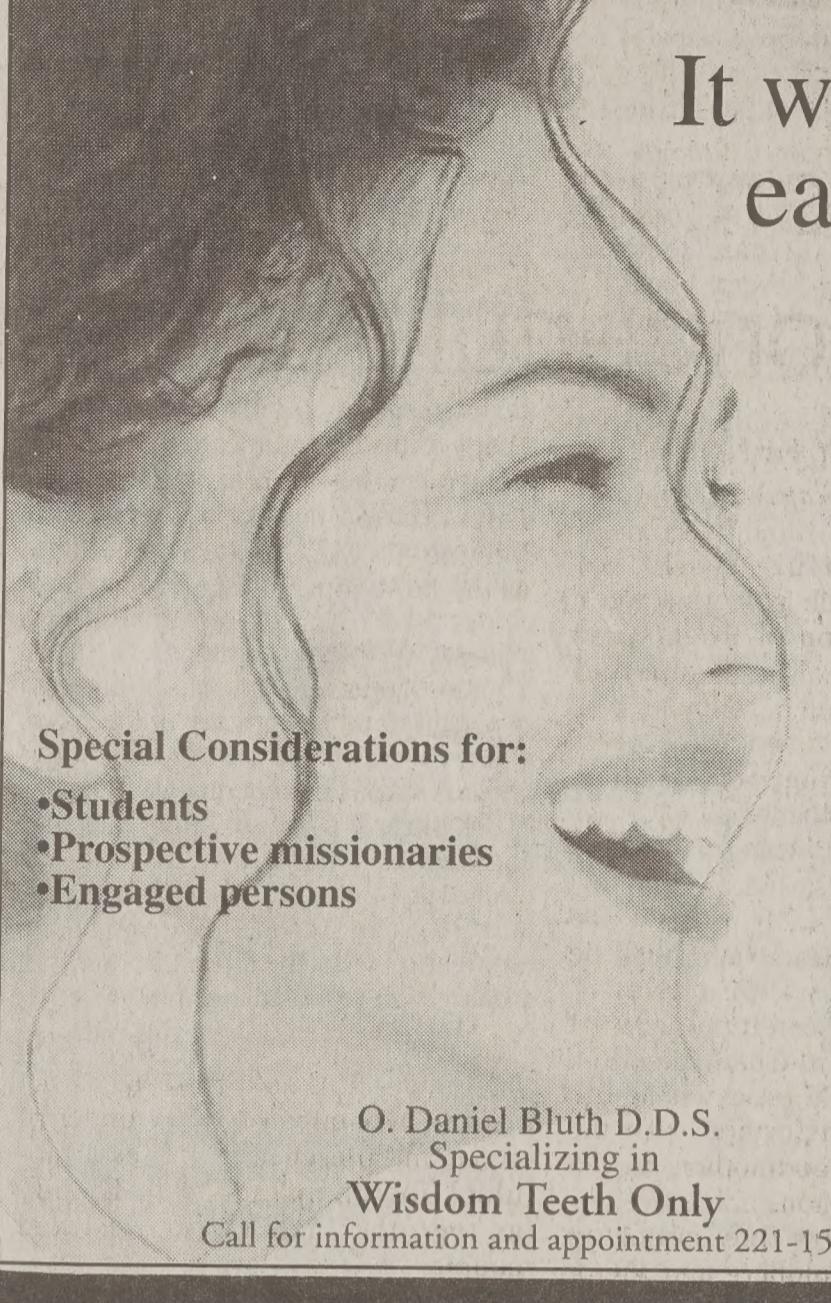

Wisdom Teeth

• Pre Mission Discount • Emergencies Welcome
• Nitrous Gas & IV Sedation Available

Bret A. Tobler, DMD 374-0867 488 N

It was easy!

Special Considerations for:

- Students
- Prospective missionaries
- Engaged persons

O. Daniel Bluth D.D.S.
Specializing in Wisdom Teeth Only

Call for information and appointment 221-1534

What're YOU lookin' at?

Oh. A fraction of our great music selection.

12.99 CD Ea.
9.99 Cass.

G. LOVE &
SPECIAL SAUCE
Yeah, It's That Easy

DREAM THEATER
Falling Into Infinity

I KNOW WHAT YOU DID LAST SUMMER
Soundtrack

THE GRATEFUL DEAD
Fillmore East 2-11-69

MARCY PLAYGROUND

13.99 Ea.
CD ONLY

14.99 CD
9.99 Cass.

16.99
CD ONLY

7.99 CD
5.99 Cass.

CORNERSHOP When I Was Born For The 7th Time

DST SLIPPER: Brandy plays the leading role in Disney's new adaptation of "Cinderella" on "The Wonderful World of Disney." The movie will air Sunday at 6:00 p.m. on ABC.

Photo courtesy of Disney

Cinderella' cast sprinkles magic on 'Wonderful World of Disney'

By THOMAS KENNEDY
Daily Universe Staff Writer

The "Wonderful World of Disney" struck gold this week with its adaptation of Rogers and Hammerstein's musical "Cinderella" has a lot to offer. In fact, it is one of the brightest stars from Disney in quite recent memory. A reason for the success is his made-for-TV movie and a wonderful job as Cinderella, a mild maid whose life is transformed with the fairy godmother, played by

Houston.

The cast does not stop with Goldfarb and Victor

but also a great job playing the romantic lead who desperately wants their son married.

Alexander of "Seinfeld"

as the frantic, loyal valet

Lionel.

On the wicked side is Bernadette Peters as the evil stepmother and Veanna Cox and Natalie Desselle as the lazy, spiteful stepsisters.

Though not nearly as hateful as the animated version, Peters is still believable as the jealous stepmother and Cox and Desselle do a great job playing the awkward stepsisters.

I would be remiss if I did not mention Paolo Montalban who makes his film acting debut as the Prince. Montalban has a wonderful voice and presence and does a fabulous job complementing Brandy as the other half of the destined couple.

The cast moves the movie but is not the only reason for the movie's greatness. The music, compliments of the famous musical team of Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein II, is magical and perfectly highlighting and giving emotion to the film.

"Faith in Love with Love," "Impossible" and "In My Own Little Corner" are fabulous pieces that give the spirit and enliven the cast. I would recommend "Cinderella" just for the music.

In classic Disney form, the sets and costumes are fitting and fantastic. No expense was spared in outfitting the cast with fairy tale costumes and the sets seemed to be right out of "Fantasyland."

The dance sequences are both graceful and well choreographed. The combination of music and dance fits together perfectly in a complete package that has a bit of everything.

Overall, "Cinderella" is a wonderful offering from the masters of magic and fantasy. "Cinderella" will air Sunday at 6 p.m. on ABC.

If you're a fan of romantic musicals, or if you just love a well-done movie don't miss this one, it's a must see!

Movie Review

Read The Daily Universe Online

<http://newsnet.bsu.edu>

Students use computer lab to write music

By AMY WARD
Daily Universe Staff Writer

What could Mozart and Beethoven have done if they had computers to print their compositions as they played them?

BYU composition students who use the Advanced Lab for Music Applications can have the experience daily thanks to the cutting-edge technology that ALMA offers.

"In most academic areas, if we're not learning and grasping the direction that technology is taking us, we're going to find ourselves behind," said Richard Anderson, associate professor of music and supervisor of ALMA. "Technology provides us with such wonderful tools ... that we haven't had before."

ALMA, located on the fourth floor of the Harris Fine Arts Center, is a room full of keyboards linked to computers that provide a full scope of programs which make composing, transposing and printing music much easier.

"We have a number of programs in the lab to help (students) develop their dictation skills or their listening skills," Anderson said.

FINALE, one of the programs the lab offers, "is by far the finest and most sophisticated composing program," Anderson said.

"It allows students to write their pieces very quickly and have immediate playback," Anderson said. "It comes up like it was professionally printed — before it had to be done by hand."

On FINALE, students can transpose, change, edit, insert, cut and paste all within a short time, said Aaron Mitchell, a junior from Ramona, Calif., majoring in choral education.

The program orchestrates the students' music giving them a good idea of what their compositions will sound like, whereas before students could only listen to their musical compositions in their heads, Anderson said.

Another program the lab offers is PERFORMANCE, which provides students with multi-track recording. This allows students to record musical scores for different instruments and play them back all together.

Like most labs on campus, ALMA is available for all students to use.

"Students can come in and apply what they've learned," Anderson said.

There are only Macintosh computers in ALMA, but the updated LRC lab will provide access to PC computers.

Jennifer Sundell/Daily Universe

HIGH TECH: A BYU student uses the music software at the Advanced Lab for Music Applications at the Harris Fine Arts Center. Programs like FINALE and PERFORMANCE allow students to quickly transpose, change and edit their own compositions.

EST. 1956

Popping the Question?

LOSEE
Jewelers

Only In COTTONTREE SQUARE
2230 North University Parkway #3 • Provo
373-1000
Open late Fri. Eve. till 8:00 p.m.

A TRADITION FOR ALMOST HALF A CENTURY

Reflections of Elegance™
by P.G. Printers

Wedding Invitations and accessories since 1942

We now have two locations to serve you:
University Mall • Gallery 28 • 426-9548
11 South Main • Pleasant Grove • 785-3111

500 - 5x7 color postcard invitations for $286.00 plus tax.

5 working day return on most invitations

We customize to your exacting needs

Let us help you plan the perfect invitation

MAKE A KILLING THIS SUMMER.

[Yes, we're talking management positions.]

best training and the best resources while working with the best sales management in the industry.

Regional Managers

- Personal sales of 250+
- 2 years pest control sales management experience (team sales 2,000+)

Sales Managers

- Personal sales of 250+
- 1 year pest control sales management experience preferred

So if you've got the experience and the killer instincts we're looking for, call us directly at 1-800-344-5900.

TERMINIX® DIRECT

Terminix Direct is now hiring regional managers and sales managers for 18 markets in California and Hawaii for the 1998 selling season. Because there's no hiring agent, Terminix can pay our management and sales staff more than any other company. What's more, you'll get the

THE DAILY UNIVERSE

Sports

WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 29 1997 $1.00

Shaq out, NBA in; Jazz start new trip

SHAQ FU — STOMACH FLU

Shaquille O'Neal, who has been mowing off with challenges for the Jazz to not double-team him, will miss the season opener against the Jazz Halloween night because of an abdominal strain.

O'Neal was injured Oct. 3 and aggravated the injury Oct. 22 in a game against Denver. He missed the Lakers' final three pre-season games and is questionable for all of next week's games.

Add doing sit-ups to free-throw practice and developing a hook shot to the list of things Shaq ought to spend his summer doing rather than making movies that are such blockbusters they go straight to video (did you see Steel?).

REFS GOT NEXT?

The NBA will become the first all-male professional sports league to employ female officials when it hires Dee Kantner and Violet Palmer as game referees this week.

Kantner was supervisor of officials in the WNBA, and Palmer was an official in that league. The two have also had experience in women's college games, rookie camps and pre-season. Palmer was one of the referees at Monday's Jazz-Suns game.

Questions have arisen about whether the two are really qualified for the job or if the hiring is simply a public relations ploy by the NBA.

The question really ought to be whether they will call clean, travel-free games, which was the only good point about WNBA games, or if Ewing, Ostertag and Olajuwon will broaden the current four-steps rule to five.

W-REFS CONTINUED

When asked what it was like to have a female referee Shandon Anderson said, "It doesn't really bother me, you don't really go out there and think about that. You just go out there and play. Some of the guys wanted to say something to her, but (they were) pretty hesitant so I think that might be the big difference."

NBA players hesitating to swear and talk back to the refs? Maybe the league won't be a total loss when Jordan leaves after all.

HALF THE TEAM THEY USED TO BE

The Jazz played their final pre-season game without John Stockton or Karl Malone. Malone was resting a sore left knee and is expected to play in Friday's opener.

When asked how the team is doing in the context of having just played without

Stockton or Malone, Greg Ostertag said, "We got a good team, but we're not near where we were at last year at this time."

Face it, Greg, without Stockton or Malone you're not near where the Grizzlies were last year at this time.

FOOT IN MOUTH, HEAD IN ...

Earning points for being humble and honest, Ostertag was candid talking about his pre-season play: "I personally think I've really got to pull my head out of my butt," he said.

Don't worry. Shaq is injured, your head can stay right where it is Friday.

HIGH TIMES IN THE NBA

According to a New York Times report, between 60 percent and 70 percent of NBA players are involved in smoking marijuana and heavy drinking. The numbers are based on reports from players, former players, agents and others involved with basketball operations.

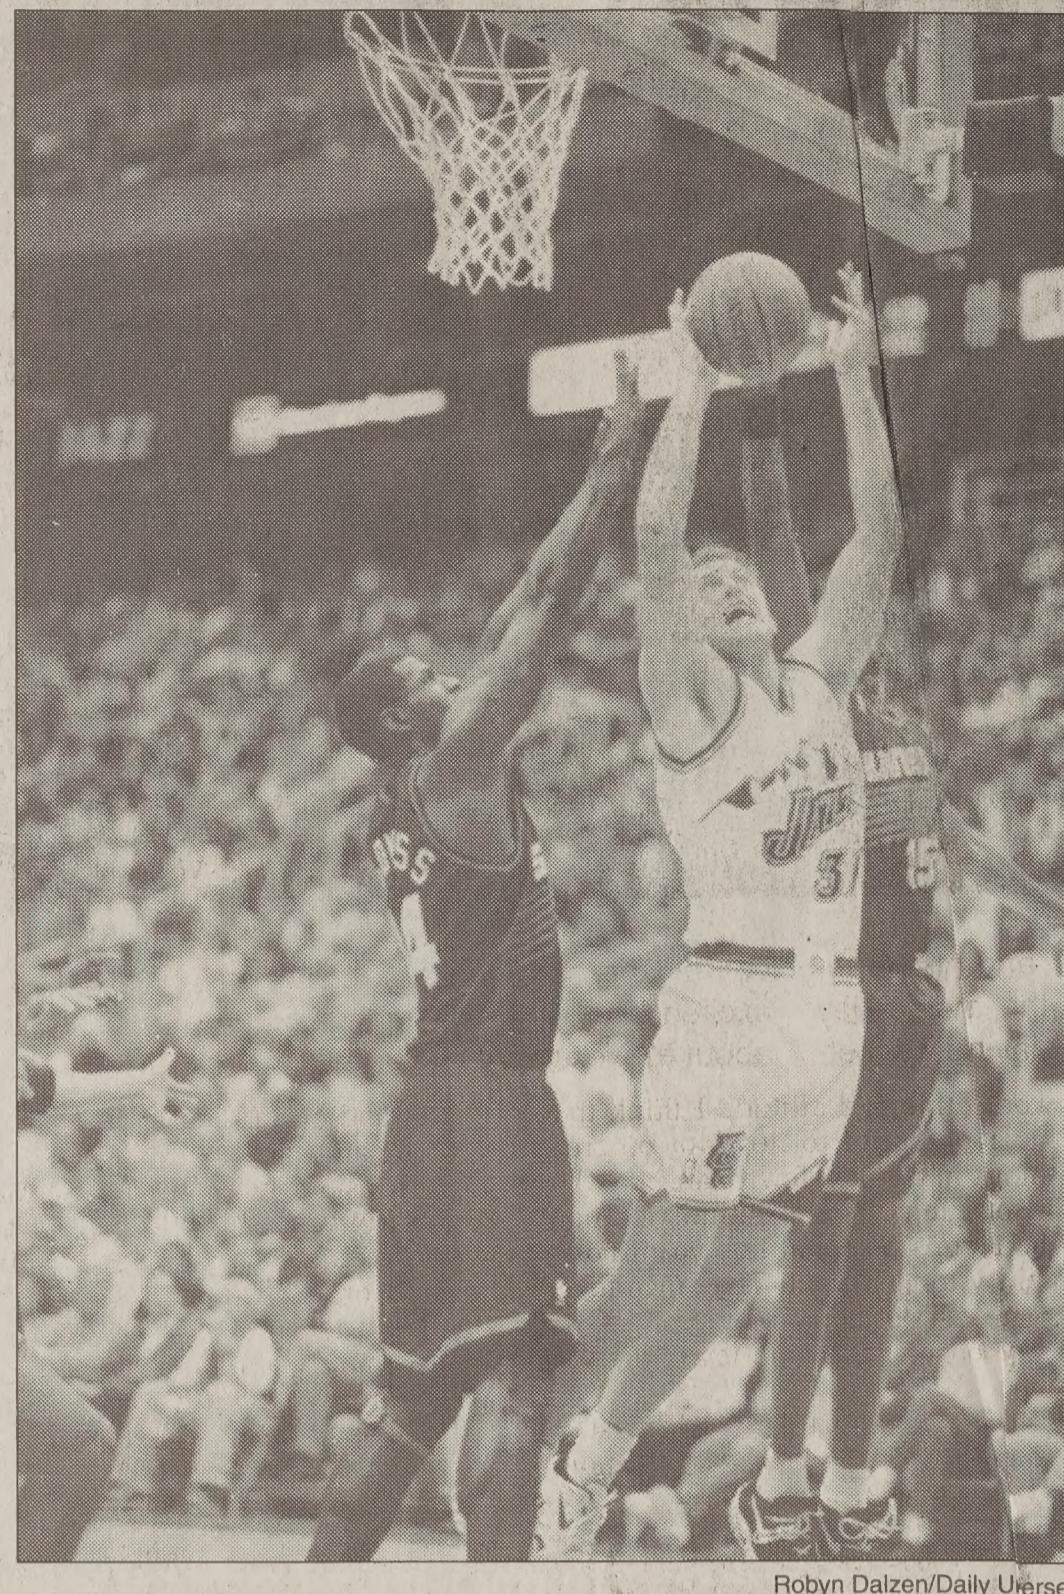

ESPN reported on its web page that Derek Harper, Orlando Magic guard, said, "You don't follow guys home, but just from what you hear I think it's closer to 70 percent."

Greg Foster of the Utah Jazz doesn't believe the statistic.

"That's a bunch of (bull) really," he said. "70 percent of the NBA players probably have taken a drink, but I don't know how they got that figure, that can't be."

In related news on drug use, apparently there are some teams in the NBA that think they can take the title from the Chicago Bulls.

TRADE RUMORS

Robyn Dalzen/Daily Universe

GOING UP STRONG: Jazz forward Adam Keefe puts up a shot in traffic during Utah's pre-season victory over Phoenix Monday night at the Delta Center. Keefe started and scored 12 points.

Rumors are flying about possible deals involving five-time All-Star Mitch Richmond of the Sacramento Kings. Lakers general manager Jerry West has denied that his team might send Eddie Jones, Corie Blount and perhaps another player in a package deal that would bring Richmond to the Lakers.

The New York Knicks now head rumors with a scenario that would send point guard Chris Childs and forward Chris Mills to Sacramento. Forwards Corliss Williamson, Billy Owens, point guard Bobby Hurley and Richmond would then be sent to New York, according to ESPN. The Miami Heat are interested in Richmond.

Richmond, a great player wallowing in the mire that is the Sacramento Kings organization, defends Michael Jordan better than anyone in the league, according to His Airness himself.

So the question is, at what cost to the future is a shot at the title worth today Bryon Russell? Greg Ostertag? Howie Easley, Shandon Anderson, Jeff Hornacek and everyone whose last name is not spelled S-T-O-C-K-T-O-N or M-A-L-O-N-E?

Marlins celebrate Series victory

Associated Press

MIAMI — The Florida Marlins threw an all-day party that turned downtown into a howling river of teal, spilled over to Fort Lauderdale and ended at Pro Player Stadium, site of the team's World Series triumph.

Beaming players drenched in ticker tape waved from convertibles Tuesday while thousands of fans, many dressed in the team's teal blue, cheered and chanted during a parade down Flagler Street.

South Florida's ethnic friction was put aside as Latin, black and white fans joined in the area's largest, most festive gathering since at least 1987, when Pope John Paul II visited Miami.

"This community has come together in a way I haven't seen for many, many years," said Dade County Mayor Alex Penelas, wearing a Marlins jersey.

The celebration touched all the bases, taking the team through Miami's Little Havana in trolleys, then moving 25 miles north to Fort Lauderdale, where the Marlins rode down the New River aboard speedboats.

At Pro Player Stadium, where the Marlins beat the Cleveland Indians in Game 7 of the World Series on Sunday, a capacity crowd of 70,000 gathered for a rally. World Series most valuable player Livan Hernandez danced with Latin showgirls, and Miami's own Gloria Estefan sang a tribute to the team.

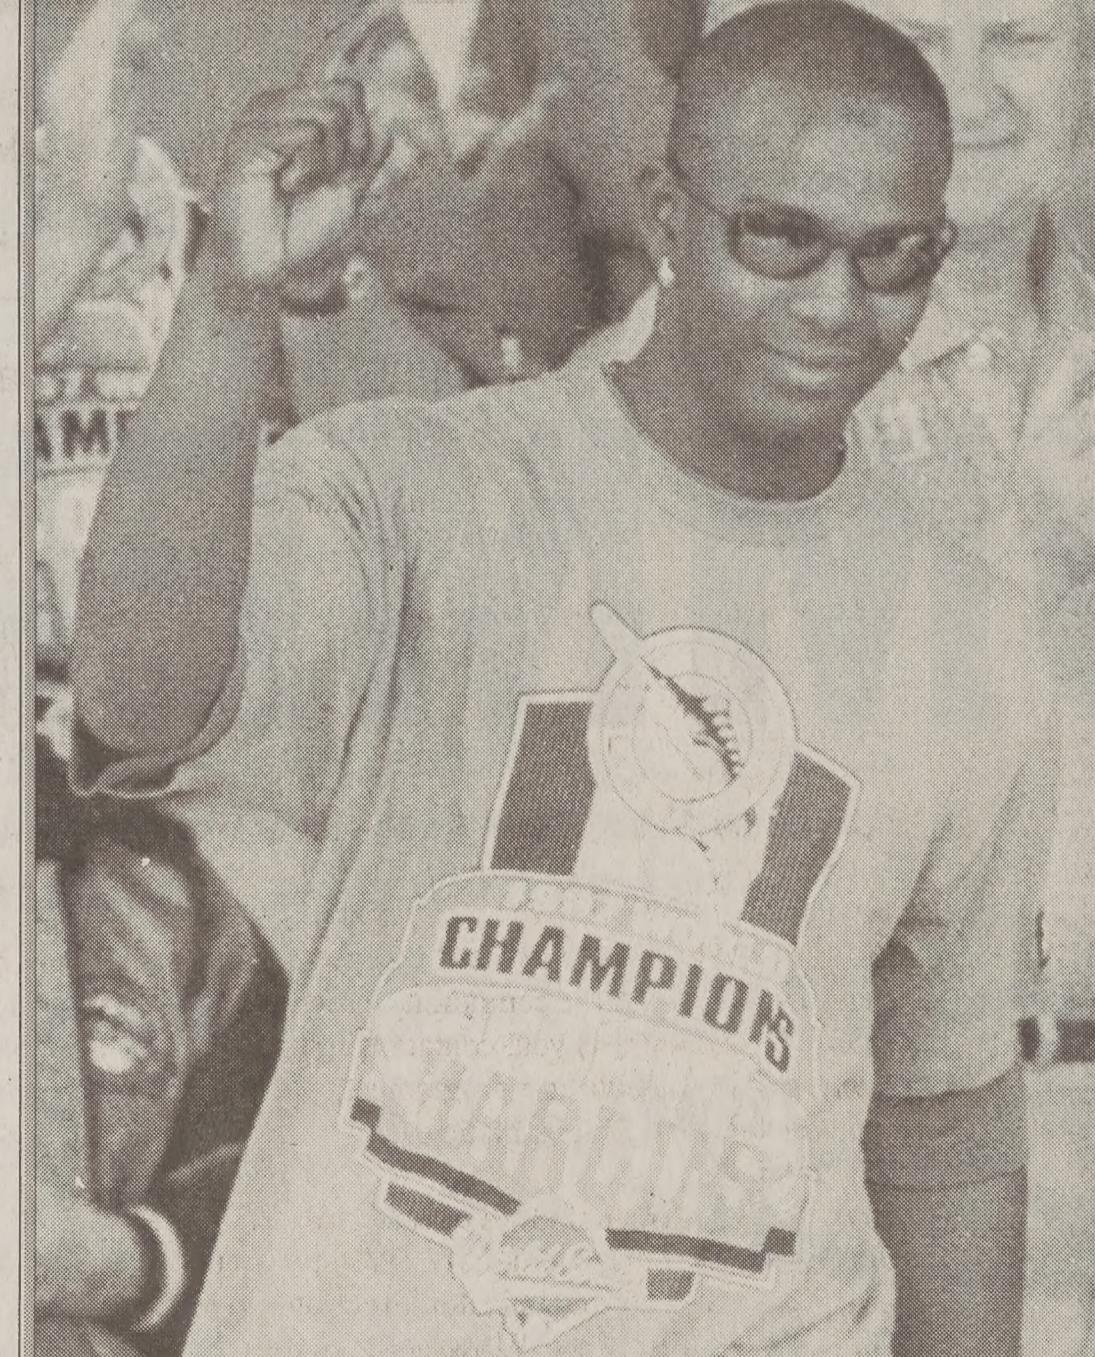

The 10 hours of festivities began in downtown Miami with cloudy skies and flurries of confetti, but there was no rain on the parade.

Hernandez, a Cuban, and Colombian Edgar Renteria drew some of the biggest cheers, and many fans waved flags from those nations.

Hernandez wore sunglasses, a Panama hat and a strip of ticker tape on his cheek.

"I love you, Miami," he said.

Slugger Gary Sheffield stood up in his convertible, smoking a cigar, pounding his chest and shouting, "We're No. 1!"

AP Photo

PARTY TIME: Edgar Renteria, who drove in the winning run in the Marlins' Game 7 victory Sunday night, celebrates Tuesday in Miami.

"To see everybody out here makes us realize what we've done," said Jeff Conine, a Marlins star since their first game in 1993.

The motorcade also included pitcher Alex Fernandez, a Miami native who delayed shoulder surgery to take part; manager Jim Leyland, enjoying his first World Series title in 33 years of professional baseball; and owner Wayne Huizenga, who is reconsidering his decision in June to put the team up for sale.

Fans pressed against the cars and raised their arms to embrace the team that turned a workday into a holiday.

"My boss thinks I'm sick," one sign said.

FREE WINDSHIELD!
FREE WINDSHIELD!
FREE!!
FREE!!

CALL FOR DETAILS

379-0815

Quick-Fix

FAST & FRIENDLY AUTO GLASS 355 S. FREEDOM BLVD.

For BYU Sports Updates Call 378-TEAM

BYU GAMES CENTER

1171 ELWC 378-4381

There is more to FHE than eating ice-cream, cookies, donuts in your apartment. We have the solution for you:

Table Tennis,
Bowling or Billiards!!

Closed for Devotional:
Tues 10:45am-12:15pm
Hours M-Th 9am-11pm
Fri 9am-Mid Sat 10am-11:30pm

EMERGENCY ROOM

1675 N. 200 W. Suite 3A • Provo

FEELING A LITTLE TRAPPED LATELY?

Get right in at...

OCTOBER

at L.A. Lakers 8:30 p.m.

1

at Phoenix 7:00 p.m.

3

at Denver 7:00 p.m.

5

at San Antonio 6:30 p.m.

8

at Vancouver 7:00 p.m.

12

at Seattle 7:00 p.m.

16

at Dallas 6:30 p.m.

18

at Sacramento 7:00 p.m.

21

at Los Angeles 8:30 p.m.

22

at San Antonio 7:00 p.m.

25

at Minnesota 7:00 p.m.

27

at Golden State 7:00 p.m.

28

at L.A. Clippers 8:30 p.m.

30

DECEMBER

New Jersey 1

Toronto 3

at Portland 5

Indiana 8

at Sacramento 12

Dallas 16

at Washington 18

at Miami 21

at Orlando 22

at Cleveland 25

at Atlanta 27

Houston 28

Portland 30

at Vancouver 30

at Denver 30

Home games in bold

MAKE MONEY USI YOUR FOREIGN LANGU

PART-TIME JOB!

If you can read and write fluently in a foreign language, we need you for an international charity sports event we are hosting! For details, call Global Sports Marketing Group at:

(801) 374-8363

TODAY WED. OCT.

Come in for a FREE Blood Pressure Screening

from 11:30am-2:00pm

Top of the stairs, 3rd floor at

BYU BOOKSTORE

Returned Missionaries

The Global Business World Needs Your Bilingual Skills

INTERCON

INTERCON will connect you with the best employment information in a GLOBAL ECONOMY

- Enter your personal resume into our global infoBase powered by Folio®!
- Your resume will be available for four months to businesses accessing our database for jobs matching your career goals.
- Hurry! This service offered FREE for a limited time only!

For more information or to sign up: Visit our internet site at www.intercon-jobsonline.com or call 1-888-562-4630

EMERGENCY ROOM

1675 N. 200 W. Suite 3A • Provo

FEELING A LITTLE TRAPPED LATELY?

Get right in at...

FIRST MEDICAL URGENT CARE CENTER

WHY USE THE E.R.?
OUR CAPABLE, FRIENDLY STAFF CAN SEE YOU WITHIN MINUTES AND SAVE YOU MONEY!
CALL NOW!
373-1633

Medical Doctors available at 5 p.m.
BYU and Major Insurance accepted.

Est. 1969
Come In And Enjoy!

How About $89.00 OFF Ralph Lauren Suits & Sport Coats

• 39 WEST

DETUTTER

Northeast Entrance University Mall 225-3900

Brothers bring basketball brilliance to BYU

BYE ARMSTRONG
Sports Writer

The BYU basketball team has a unique duo, two brothers who have brought some important strength to the team, namely height and work ethic.

Sophomore, and Bart, a junior, are brothers from Salt Lake City, who are this season, the same lives, playing on the same team.

Recently returned from a year LDS mission in Paducah, Kentucky, played for the team and said he was unable to get any playing time.

His brother Bart says

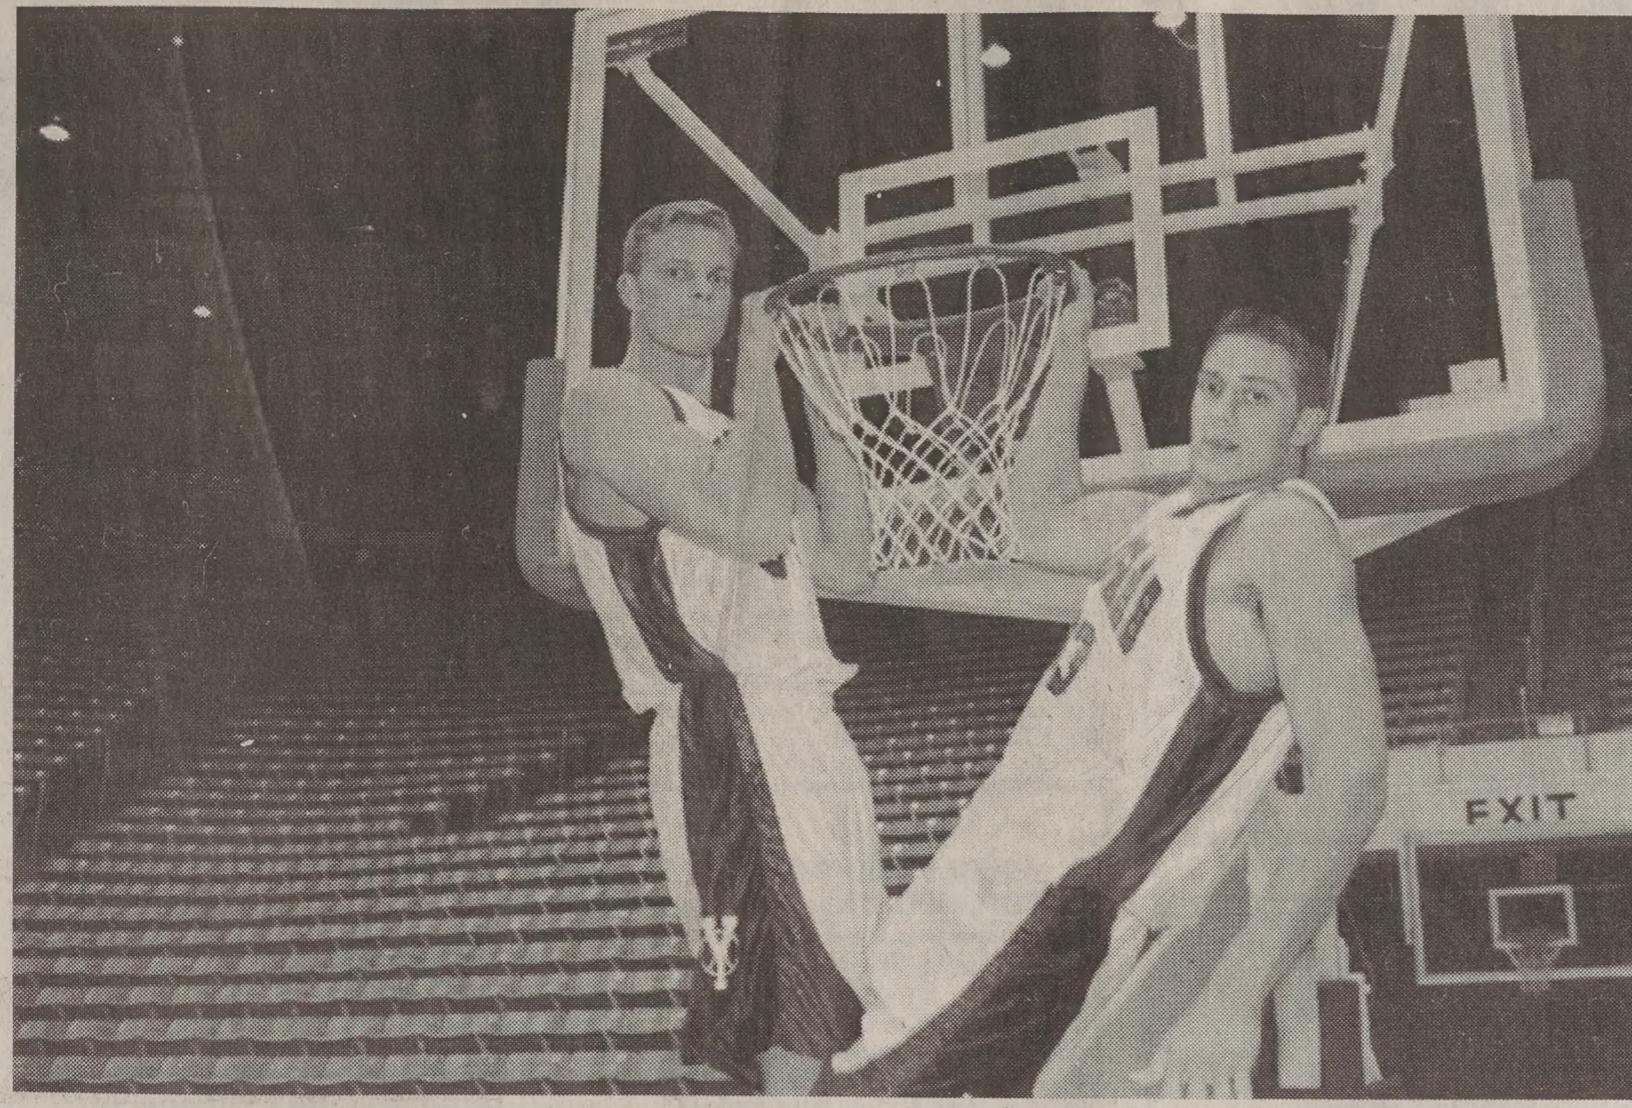

"big man" who has a lot of room.

Runs in the Jepsen family said it played a major role in his decision to play basketball. The Jepsen brothers said they enjoyed sports when they were younger, when Bart grew a lot during his high school years, he pursued his love for basketball.

The Jepsens never played together prior to this year, but did some big shoes to fill after their older brother Bret left basketball.

As being compared with his dad, "He always set the bar high," said. "He always set the bar high." But, Bart didn't have any problem meeting his dad's standards.

Bret Jepsen, Bart and Bret's dad, was impressed with Bret, saying that he always had the ability to match his son's abilities.

Gregg Benson/Daily Universe

ABOVE THE RIM: Bret Jepsen, left, and his brother Bart share a lighter moment at the media day early in October. The brothers are playing basketball on the same team for the first time. Both are excited for the upcoming season and are optimistic about the team's potential.

"Bart's always been the kind of guy where if Bret could do it, Bart could do it better," he said. "Whatever standard Bret set, Bart wanted to get one up — real competitive."

Head coach Steve Cleveland is also impressed with the Jepsen brothers and their attitude. "I am impressed with their work ethic, and I think they both have tremendous potential," Cleveland said. "With their work ethic and attitude I think they have potential to do a lot of great things in the next few years."

Both Jepsens are optimistic about the team's potential this year and its ability to achieve it. They mentioned some of the things they feel will be very beneficial to the team this season.

Both agreed that the coaching staff, young players, newly recruited point guards and overall work ethic of the team are all benefits.

When asked how they feel about the task of re-establishing the team's reputation after the 1-21 record from last season, Bart and Bret said the fans need to know that the team is almost entirely new this year.

"All the players this year come from winning teams," Bret said. "So that's all we know how to do."

BYU School of Music presents

The Merry Widow
by Franz Lehár

October 24-25, 29-November 1
7:30 p.m. • de Jong Concert Hall
Harris Fine Arts Center • BYU
Ticket office 378-4322

Johnny B's
COMEDY & SUCH • EST. 1990

2-4-1 WEEKEND

What is your problem? You don't have enough money?
PROBLEM SOLVED! All this weekend get into Johnny B's for HALF PRICE!

All the fun, half the coin!

Must use coupon.

COUPON
2-4-1 admission
with this here coupon
One face per coupon,
blah, blah exp 11/1/97

SHOWTIMES THURS 9
FRI & SAT 8, 10 PM

377-6910
177 W. 300 S.

soft drinks FREE Halloween!

comedian

Franklin Park Condominiums
215 South 1050 West, Provo

Decorated Model Open
M-Th 2-7, Fri 3-6
Sat. 12-5

377-5600

Why Take Chances?

Ask about the drawing for a Free Get-Away!

Short Closing Costs?
Call Us!

Harward ASSOCIATES

377-5600

*This offer may change or be withdrawn at anytime without notice. Some restrictions apply.

Service Station

Service Opportunities for You and Your Friends.

Information Provided By
The Campus Involvement Center

- Provo's First Night Celebration is looking for individuals to help set up the festivities as well as work in the booths. The shifts run from two to six hours most ending before midnight on the 31st of December. There will be a free lunch and free entrance into the celebration for all volunteers. To volunteer, please contact Jennifer Mustoe at 379-6645.
- Spanish and Portuguese Speakers are needed to help teach immigrant children in Utah County Elementary Schools. If you have these skills and are willing to make time for a student that needs you, contact BYUSA at 378-3901.
- Adopt-A-Grandparent need volunteers that have a desire to make friends with more mature members of the community. Volunteers are asked to commit to two hours a week. If this interests you, contact Katrina Cox at 374-5013.
- Sports Spectacular is a program where BYU students accompany mentally retarded individuals to the BYU athletic events. To help out, contact Sean Anderson at 370-2406.
- Provo City Volunteer Projects provides individuals with many opportunities to be of service within the community. Projects include different aspects of park cleanup. In order to be involved, contact Jennifer Mustoe at 379-6645.
- BYU Boy Scout Pow Wow needs students to teach merit badge clinics. The clinics will run November 1st, 8th, and 13th featuring a myriad of subjects. Students are invited to choose a clinic that will match their major or a subject that they are interested in learning more about. To find out details, contact Ted C. Hindmarsh at 378-6945.
- Project Vision is a one-on-one mentoring program for at risk youth. There is a new volunteer training the first Wednesday of the month. If you are interested in volunteering, contact Amy Rasmussen at 373-8200.
- Concept Key is looking for volunteers to help with its latchkey kid program. There opportunity for students to volunteer with hands on education projects as well as more recreational type activities. If you can be of assistance, contact Mica Westover at 370-4609.
- Service-To-Go is a clearinghouse for service projects. It provides all sorts of opportunities for service work. If you are interested in getting involved, contact Melissa Severson at 379-4156.
- Plus MANY more opportunities!

"God does notice us, and he watches over us. But it is usually through another person that he meets our needs."

Spencer W. Kimball

The Campus Involvement Center
is dedicated to helping students get involved. We have information on a myriad of service opportunities, as well as campus programs, clubs and leadership opportunities.

Call us at 378-8686

Look for the Service Station regularly in The Universe to help you serve this semester.

Celtic Night

THE ETHEREAL YET EARTHY MUSIC OF

ANNE-MARIE ILDEBRANDT-CLAUS

FEATURED PERFORMER AT BYU HOMECOMING SPECTACULAR

AVAILABLE AT BYU BOOKSTORE MEDIA PLAY

When you've grown that foot or two come see us for your pre-mission dental exam

Dr. Phillip Hall D.D.S., L.C.

COUGAR
DENTAL CENTER
837 N. 700 E.
Provo
373-7700

Quality care when you need it most.

Successfully Serving Students for 10 Years +

The Universe Classified

"AD" IT UP! Open Mon.-Fri. 8:30-5:00 3371 ELWC Phone (801)378-2897 BUY • TRADE • SELL • SAVE!

Classified Ad Policy

Fall/Winter 1997-98

* 2-line minimum. * Deadline for Classified Ads: 2 p.m., 1 day prior to publication.

Every effort will be made to protect our readers from deception, but advertising appearing in the Daily Universe does not indicate approval by or sanction of the University or the Church.

Read your ad carefully before placing it. Due to mechanical operation it is impossible to correct or cancel an ad until it has appeared one time.

Advertisers are expected to check the first insertion. In event of error, notify the Classified Department by 1:00 p.m. the first day the ad runs wrong. We cannot be held responsible for any errors after the first day. No credit will be made after that time.

The Daily Universe reserves the right to classify, edit, or reject any classified advertisement.

1 day, 2 lines.....4.50	4-5 days, 2 lines.....12.85
each add. line.....1.65	each add. line.....6.00
2-3 days, 2 lines.....8.80	8-10 days, 2 lines.....22.90
each add. line.....4.30	each add. line.....10.30

11-15 days, 2 lines.....34.25
each add. line.....14.15
16-20 days, 2 lines.....42.96
each add. line.....18.29

Daily Universe Classifieds • Fifth floor ELWC • 378-7409 • 378-2897 • Visa/MC/Signature Card accepted

04-Training & Instruction

Dental Assisting Training-Thinking of dropping out or changing majors? Dental Assisting offers nationwide jobs 15 wk course starts 1/5 T, $1800 call Dr Molen @ 356-3650

EMERGENCY MEDICAL Technician Course & continuing Medical Ed. For info 372-383.

05-Insurance

Finally, Affordable MATERNITY
No deductible-No waiting period 1-800-884-9363

HEALTH MATERNITY COMPLICATIONS & MATERNITY SUPPLEMENTS
Kay Mendenhall 224-9229

11-Special Notices

We need your help! On Weds, Oct 15, @ 7:50 am a woman was struck by a car in the cross walk at 900 East 300 South in Provo-the driver of the car, a BYU employee put the victim in her car and took her to the UVMRC ER-before going on to work. We need any information on this incident. Please call Sandy Sebring 489-0199 (home) or 371-7448 (work)

$ ATTENTION STUDENTS $
EARN EXTRA CASH IN THE FALL. MONEY 4 COLLEGE. CALL NOW 1-800-532-5953

** *
STUDENTS 10% OFF
Place an ad and receive a 10% discount!
Show us your current BYU ID Card

14-Special Offers

FREE HALLOWEEN GRAPHICS
w/placement of ad! Your choice of pumpkin or cat; 3 graphics; any combination. Good through Halloween!
Place your ad today!

New Costume Shop in town. Early bird gets their perfect Halloween costume! Rent, special order, or have your own made. 426-5894

21-Fundraising

Harvest Holiday Doll Show and Sale Nov. 1, 9-4pm Hillcrest Elementary School 651 East 1400 South, Orem. Free admission

THE ULTIMATE FUNDRAISER for Greeks, clubs, and motivated individuals are available now, FAST, EASY - NO FINANCIAL OBLIGATION. (888)51-A-PLUS EXT. 51

27-Weight Loss & Fitness

HEALTH RIDER. Like new! $200 OBO. Call 374-6566.

28-Health & Fitness

Rent AbRollers $4/mo, Stairclimber $12, HealthRiders $10 From BodyFlex Rental Free delivery/Pick up. 371-6149

30-Help Wanted

ARE YOU A LEADER? Need flexible hours to allow for classes/study schedule? I'm looking for 2-3 individuals w/outstanding work ethics & high-energy to help w/company local expansion. Call for aptt. 764-0530.

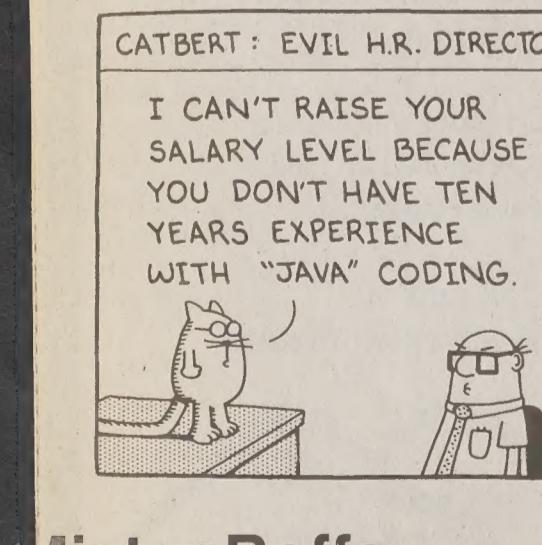

Administrative PAYROLL ENTRY

Easy entry level work, with flexible schedule, knowledge of windows 3.1 helpful, excellent income. Call 344-4225 or 1-800-279-4773.

Garfield® by Jim Davis

Dilbert® by Scott Adams

Mr. Boffo by Joe Martin

MARKEPLACE

3371 ELWC Phone (801)378-2897

30-Help Wanted

ORDER ENTRY P/T At Nature's Sunshine in Provo. Customer Service experience preferred. English and Spanish bilingual applicants needed. Hours range from 8am-12pm or 1pm-6pm. Benefits if available for 8 months plus. Tuition reimbursement available. Pay $6.50-$7.20 per hour.
Call for Appt. 226-8119 MANPOWER

FT/PT Phone sales-Looking for responsible adults who can talk well on the phone. No selling involved only appl. setting. Pay starting $7 and up+bonuses. No experience necessary. FT 1-9pm PT 4-9pm. Call for an appt 785-5557 ext 131, please ask for Kim

FREE FOOD STORAGE!
FOR INFO CALL 226-6607

SKI PARK CITY

6 young women to work at Chateau Apres Lodge for the ski season. We provide room, board, ski pass & small salary. Maid and office schedules available. Call 801-649-9372.

NOW RECRUITING!

STUDENTS, MOTHERS, PUTTING SPOUSE THRU SCHOOL-ers, SECOND JOB-ers, BETWEEN/OUT OF SCHOOL-ers, RETIREES who require flexible daytime schedules, ask for Gordon @ 375-0612 before 5PM. Benefits include: writing your own schedule weekdays between 7AM-5PM, weekly paychecks, comprehensive wage/no sales, relaxed work environment, weekends/evenings/holidays OFF, part-time working environment with growth-potential. $6.50 to start, raise after the first 90 days. Call 434-0389 for more information or complete an application at 500 S. 500 W., Lindon, UT. (1600 N. Orem, next to the freeway).

WAITRESS/SERVER 2 Jobs Avail. $4.25/hr tips & $5.50/hr to start. The Great Steakhouse 1650 W Center, Provo. call Terri @ 489-1119

INTERNET DEVELOPMENT INC

GREAT JOBS AVAILABLE

WEB DEVELOPER: professional, high-end web site creation, Photoshop & HTML proficiency. Graphics capabilities emphasized.

TECH SUPPORT: very familiar with Win95, good phone skills. Support for our newly released software. Great position for a student!

NIGHT SUPERVISOR: excellent phone skills, computer skills required. P/T hours from 5-9pm to answer incoming phone calls.

CUSTOMER RELATIONS: excellent written & verbal communication skills required. F/T position available to respond to incoming phone calls from id! advertising campaigns.

Each position has multiple openings both part and full-time. Flexible hours. Fax resume to 224-4457. Further information 224-4444.

IMMEDIATE OPENINGS! All sales. Big $$ commissions paid weekly. FT & PT. Free qualified leads. Call John @ 374-8211

Administrative COMPUTER WORK - Easy entry level work. Excellent income. Knowledge of Win 3.1 helpful. Flexible Schedule. 800-373-0286

BABY SITTER NEEDED for 2 children, Wed & Fri, 11 am-6 pm. Call 765-0547, or lv msg

MANUFACTURING

P/T shifts of 4 hrs. daily between 8am-7pm. We will train you to do metal working, auto body type filling & sanding & woodworking in building safest. Pays $6.75-8.50/hr., depending on exp & assignment. Benefits incl. pd. vacation & 401K plan. Pro-Steel 1400 S. State St, Provo. (Highway 89 South).

MANUFACTURING

P/T shifts of 4 hrs. daily between 8am-7pm. We will train you to do metal working, auto body type filling & sanding & woodworking in building safest. Pays $6.75-8.50/hr., depending on exp & assignment. Benefits incl. pd. vacation & 401K plan. Pro-Steel 1400 S. State St, Provo. (Highway 89 South).

GIRLS GYMNASTICS coach wanted. Pay based on experience. Part-time. Must have own transportation. Call 756-6704.

31-Business Opportunities

WORK IN JAPAN - BSK of Osaka is accepting applications from BA, BS recipients to work as English language instructors for a min. of 1 year beginning in Jan. Excellent conditions. Call Scott Allen at 489-7892.

CREDIT CARD Guaranteed Acceptance 5-7% Int. No Income Verif. No Credit Checks, Huge Income Potential. Call: Justin 377-0491

750 "HOW TO" books, reports, and manuals you can print and sell. Get all 750 on CD. Call 1-800-466-9222 ext. 7381 DEPT P. 24 hrs, for a FREE info pack

40-Men's Contracts

2 BDRM. apt., Indry facility, d/w, mw, a/c, $185+util. Avail. Immed. Call 374-8158.

CLOSE TO CAMPUS $230/mo. Coin Indry, spacious, grt rm-mates, pool table. 812-2235.

MEN'S BYU APPROVED CONTRACT for sale. $199/mo. Call 374-9090

41-Women's Contracts

2 GIRLS Condo contracts avail 11/1.151 E 300 N #3, rent reduced $175-377-4773

PRIVATE ROOM, pool. $237/mo. Call Lora 802-7219 or Scott 377-6233.

WILL EXCHANGE private room for housekeeping, possible income. Not BYU Approved, W/D, D/W. Call Lucy @ 377-7654.

PRVT ROOM Avail. now, in Orem. $245/mo. +utils. One roommate. Full size bed. 765-4743

BYU APPROVED WOMAN'S CONTRACT for sale. Call 374-9090

WOMEN: New large 4 bdrm. apt. $800/mo+utils +Dep. W/D hk-ups, cvrd prkg. 375-9135

42-Condos For Rent

2 Bdrm Town House in Orem. $800 N-$500 /mo+$500 dep. Pet.no smoking. 221-9788

Signature Cards

are welcome at the Daily Universe

Classifieds.

Remember that you get a 10% discount if you are currently a student at B

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

Signature Card

90-Used Cars

'94 GEO TRACKER GL-hard/soft top

JETTA GL-thule racks, 6-disc, 765-0

'88 HONDA Accord for sale. $4,70

Call 371-9146 and leave a mes

'90 FORD EXPEDITION 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'91 FORD FALCON 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'92 FORD FESTIVA 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'93 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'94 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'95 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'96 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'97 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'98 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'99 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'00 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'01 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'02 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'03 FORD TAURUS 4WD

Mon. 8am-5pm. Call 371-9146

'04 FORD TAURUS 4WD

</

Project plans endanger Chile's rivers

By ELISA BALL
University Staff Writer

The Futaleufu River in southern Chile may turn into another Glen Canyon-Lake Powell controversy. Chilean power companies have proposed more than 80 hydro-projects on southern Chile's rivers.

Chris Spelius, a world-class kayaker on the 1984 Olympic team, is touring the United States to promote conservation efforts for Chilean rivers.

Spelius; Juan Jose Ezquerra, an environmental lawyer; and Pablo Gonzales, an international communications director, are founders of "Futa-Friends," a conservation effort to protect these rivers. The mission of Futa-Friends is to support a binational project to develop a resource management plan for Chile.

"Chile is an emerging country, racing towards the 20th century," Spelius said.

"Endesa Power Company has no right to come in without permission, take these families' farms and nature's beauty and build dams for their own benefit."

"We hope through Futa-Friends we will eventually be able to conserve and protect our rivers, promote sustainable economic growth and advance community education and involvement in land management and preservation efforts," Gonzales said.

Spelius runs his tours on several of southern Chile's rivers, the most famous being the Futaleufu. Spelius has toured the world looking for the ideal place to kayak and discovered Chile, a place he thought existed only in his dreams.

"If power companies acquire water rights and dams are built, the world's greatest example of nature's grace would be destroyed," Spelius said. "In any other country these areas would be preserved national parks."

Spelius will continue promotions and conservation efforts throughout the states until December. He will then return to Chile to run kayaking tours.

For more information on Futa-Friends, locate the web site at: <http://www.futafriends.org>.

KASS KAYAKER: Chris Spelius assists teaching the Kass Unlimited kayak class Wednesday. He is touring the States to promote the preservation of southern Chile's

Nino drought burns rain forest

Associated Press

Brazil — This year's

on in the Amazon rain forest even a lake is on fire,

— the worst drought in government policy that farmers to burn their land ing destruction of the

est wilderness, not to king inhabitants of the largest city with thick

bina dam reservoir, a water level has exposed long submerged. For arid, then caught fire.

rees in the lake are burn-seen anything like it."

Branda de Souza of government's environment agency.

ze spews from the thou-

s that have spread with e parched Amazon, an two-thirds the size of the United States. The haze is 1.1 million residents of city of Manaus.

the house in the morn-

step into a thick haze," reira, a secretary in the time of year are com-

ily deforested Amazon

s Mato Grosso and Para, is regularly burned for at the fires now are the hory — and the intensity

in Amazonas state, where nearly 98 per-original forest canopy ct.

fires have spread into colorers help youth reach goals

By ROMAN HILDEBRANDT
University Staff Writer

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Scouts, there is a lot of camping and knot tying, but in the Explorers they have ... careers, fitness, outdoors, social, citizenship/leadership and service," Ewell said. "It's not quite like the Boy Scouts, but it is goal-oriented."

The Explorers are given the opportunity to join posts (areas of interest) that specialize in careers or recreational programs.

"The program helps (youth) to have a smooth transition from high school to college or from college to a career," Ewell said.

"It gives me good leadership skills, and I have an idea of what I like and don't like so I'm better prepared for college," said Jennifer Wilson, an Explorer and chair of the local Explorer Officer Association.

"Leadership opportunities are an integral part of the program," according to a troop website at www.emf.net/troop24.html. "Leadership roles within the post include the following: Explorer post officer, Explorer officers' association member or committee member and activities chair for one of the post's activities."

"The youth are the leaders. They do have adult advisers, but they run just about everything. It's kind of like a CEO in a business — the youth get experience that way," Ewell said. "That's one major difference from the Boy Scouts; in Scouts, the adults are the leaders."

Mother of 3 may run for Utah House

By STEVEN HALL
Universe Staff Writer

Becky Lockhart of Provo is stepping in where her husband left off. When Stan Lockhart announced Monday he would not be available for the vacant District 64 Utah House of Representatives seat, his wife Becky Lockhart said she may run for the position herself.

"I will probably do it," Lockhart said. "I have always been interested in doing this."

Lockhart joins former Provo Police Chief Swen C. Nielsen in the group of potential candidates to fill Rep. Byron L. Harward's vacant House seat. Harward announced in September he would resign effective Nov. 19.

Utah County Republican Party Chairman Rod Fudge said he is sorry Stan Lockhart is unable to fill the vacancy.

"Stan Lockhart was the leader, in my opinion," Fudge said. "Many people were hoping (Lockhart) could do it, but unfortunately he cannot. Now that people know that (Lockhart) is not (running), I think there's going to be several people that will step up now."

Although as of Tuesday only one candidate had formally submitted his name to the Utah GOP, Fudge said he anticipates many more entries.

"I anticipate there's going to be anywhere from half-a-dozen to a dozen people come out now that (Lockhart) is not in the picture," Fudge said.

"But his wife is in the picture ... and she has as much support as he does," Fudge said. "She has been very active in the Utah County Republican Party for several years."

Lockhart, 28, is a 1991 BYU graduate and the mother of three children ages 7, 5 and 18 months. Lockhart said her decision to run for the position relied heavily on her and her husband's ability to balance work and home.

"We've got to figure it out — with Stan's work and the kids," Lockhart said.

Fudge said anyone will be considered for Harward's replacement as long as the candidate is a registered voter, a Republican, at least 25 years of age, has lived in the state of Utah no less than three years and is a resident living within the appropriate voting boundaries of Provo's Legislative District 64 for no less than six months.

Fudge said he recommends each candidate include with a letter of intent, background information, experience, reasons for running, petitions, letters of recommendation, etc.

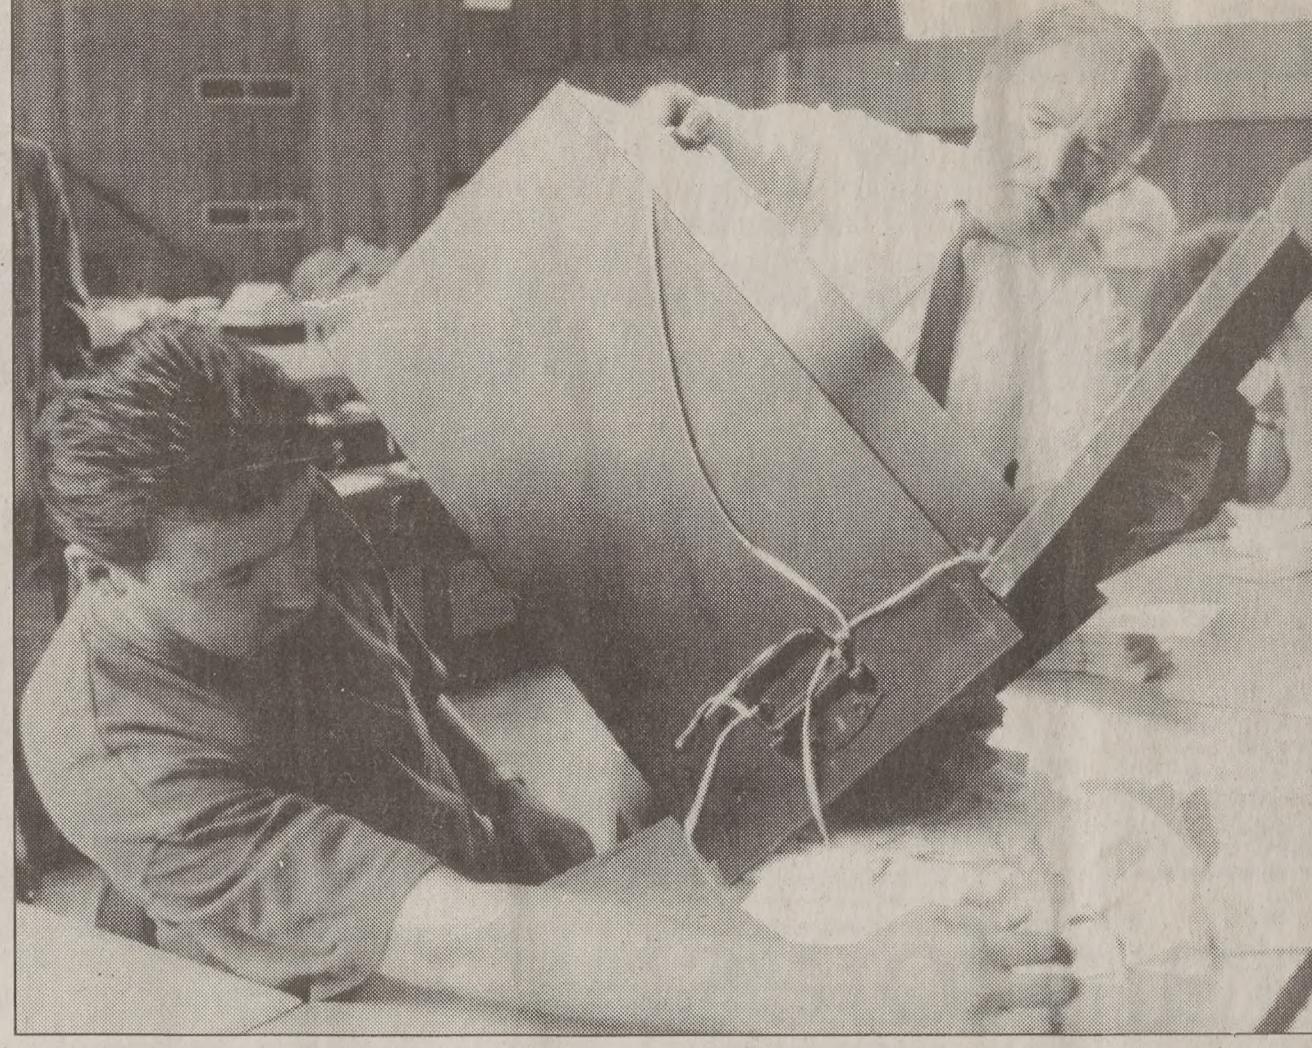

Candidates may mail their letters to the Utah County Republican Party, Post Office Box 452, Provo, UT 84603. However, Fudge said he suggests candidates hand deliver the letters to the committee in the lobby of the Provo Post Office, 95 N. 100 South, Provo to ensure they meet the deadline at 5:00 p.m. Friday.

A public meeting attended by Harward and State Republican Party Chairman Rob Bishop will be Nov. 5 at 7:00 p.m. at the County Administration Building, 100 E. Center St., Fudge said.

During the meeting the Utah County Republican Party's Steering Committee and other Republican officials will discuss the qualifications of each candidate. Each candidate will be allowed five minutes to speak. The invited Republican officers will vote by ballot to narrow the candidate list to three.

Finally, the Utah County Republican Party's Central Committee will present the three candidates to Gov. Leavitt who will choose the new representative.

Fudge said they hope to have the new representative in place as soon as possible in order to prepare him or her for the 1998 legislative session beginning in January.

BALLOTS GALORE: A ballot box is emptied in front of a counting clerk in central Dublin the day after an Irish referendum, June 19, 1992. The people of Ireland will elect a new president Thursday. Polls show that a Northern Ireland woman, Mary McAleese, may win the election. McAleese would be the first person from Northern Ireland to win the presidency.

File photo

Irish to elect new president Thursday; Northern Ireland woman could win

Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ireland — The Irish elect a new president Thursday and, for the first time in history, it appears the winner will come from Northern Ireland.

Belfast law professor Mary McAleese, the confident front-runner from Ireland's largest party, Fianna Fail, is touting her roots in the British-ruled north and campaigning under the slogan "building bridges."

But McAleese's Belfast Catholic background has proved the most controversial aspect of the four-week campaign for president, a largely ceremonial office vacated by Mary Robinson, who became the U.N. Commissioner for Human Rights.

Besides stirring up Protestant animosity, her origins have highlighted how many people in the Irish Republic view neighboring Northern Ireland with distaste and distance.

McAleese is able to run for Irish president despite her Northern Ireland roots and residence because she holds an Irish, not a British, passport, and she was nominated by a political party.

Britain granted southern Ireland independence six years later, but retained the predominantly pro-British Protestant north.

In the latest opinion poll, published Tuesday in the Irish Independent newspaper, McAleese's lead had increased to a commanding 49 percent, 17 percent over her nearest competition, European Parliament member Mary Banotti.

The poll of 1,100 people in 100 locations had a margin of error of 3 percentage points. After Banotti, of the Fine Gael party, the other candidates — anti-nuclear activist Adi Roche, anti-crime campaigner Derek Nally and Christian singer Dana Rosemary Scallon — had only single-digit support.

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

What McAleese has is an acute understanding of all shades of northern Catholic opinion and experience.

She and her eight younger siblings lived among Protestants in north Belfast until bomb and gun attacks on their home forced them out.

"I can understand so easily why people join the IRA," she told The Irish Times in 1984. "I felt the same desire for vengeance tearing at me, but deep down in my psyche I had strong Christian values."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

What McAleese has is an acute understanding of all shades of northern Catholic opinion and experience.

She and her eight younger siblings lived among Protestants in north Belfast until bomb and gun attacks on their home forced them out.

"I can understand so easily why people join the IRA," she told The Irish Times in 1984. "I felt the same desire for vengeance tearing at me, but deep down in my psyche I had strong Christian values."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."

Earlier this month, leaked Department of Foreign Affairs intelligence documents painted McAleese as a supporter of Sinn Fein, the northern-based party that grew out of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It did not help when Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams endorsed McAleese as the most capable candidate. But McAleese emphasized that she has always voted for Sinn Fein's moderate rival for Catholic votes, the Social Democratic and Labor Party.

"I am not anti-British. I am an Irish nationalist. I make no apology for that," she told the British Broadcasting Corp., adding "the situation in Northern Ireland never justified the spilling of one drop of blood."